GENEVA (AP) — Plagued by another economic crisis Britain was expected to tell her continental trade partners in the European Free Trade Association today that she plans to open negotiations to join the booming rival Common Market.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is scheduled to set forth the British position in the House of Commons Monday, and precautions were taken to prevent a leak beforehand. But Reginald Maudling, president of the British Board of Trade, and Edward Heath, No. 2 man at the foreign office, were to give the other EFTA members a preview at a meeting in Geneva today.

Policy Is Settled
After a cabinet meeting in London Thursday, Home Secretary R. A. Butler told the House of Commons the government had settled its policy toward the Common Market and would canvass conservative members for support.

It was generally understood Macmillan's government, despite opposition at home and from other commonwealth governments, is ready to link up with the Common Market if France permits certain concessions to commonwealth trade.

EFTA is composed of Britain, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland, Austria and Portugal, and Finland is an associate member. The Common Market is made up of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg and already has a long start toward completely free trade among the six nations and a common tariff barrier against the rest of the world.

Britain Must Export

Britain, which must export to live, is anxious not to be shut off from the 200 million potential customers in the Common Market countries. At the same time she does not want to undermine the economies of the commonwealth countries, who fear their privileged trading position in the British market will be sacrificed.

French President Charles de Gaulle sees the Common Market as an opportunity to unite continental Western Europe politically under French leadership and is not anxious to share the reins with the British. At his urging, the six-nation group took a tentative step toward political association last week in a move interpreted as a deterrent to the British.

De Gaulle is also opposed to reservations and exceptions in the tariff structure to benefit the commonwealth countries.

Weather Forecast Up to Wednesday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from 7 p.m. today through 7 p.m. Wednesday: Eastern New York — Warm, midsummer weather expected with a gradual trend to warmer and more humid weather. Temperatures averaging around or just above normal. Chance of a few isolated thundershowers over the weekend but mostly fair weather, followed by a period of scattered thundershowers early next week.

Western New York — A typical midsummer period is indicated. Temperatures are expected to average near normal. Hot and humid over the weekend with widely scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers. A more general shower period Monday or Tuesday, followed by a turn to cooler. More than one-half inch of rain is likely.

Temperature normals—Daytime highs 78-86. Nighttime lows 58-66.

Secretary of Army Says Vital Guard Be Ready

HICKMAN Ky. (AP)—Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr., warning that "we in a very real sense are living in wartime," has outlined a National Guard program with both long- and short-range objectives.

Stahr was here to receive the honors of his home town on "Elvis Stahr Day."

"We all must be stronger, more effective and more combat ready than ever before," he said.

"We intend—and we are in dead earnest about this—to bring as many National Guard units as possible to a point where they are ready to be mobilized and deployed on a time schedule geared closely to that of the active forces."

PROSPECTIVE OFFICERS — Election of officers will dominate the agenda of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association 26th annual convention at New Paltz tonight. It opened Friday night with a barbecue, entertainment, and fire demonstration. The closing feature will be the parade at 5 p. m. Saturday in which 35 companies are to march. A volunteer with a long and distinguished record in firemanics, Joseph L. Murphy, (left) retired Kingston chief and past president of the county association meets with prospective officers, (l-r) Frederick C. ## Congressman Is Main Speaker for Salute to Italy

Alfred E. Santangelo, Democratic Congressman from Manhattan, will be principal speaker Sunday at the 2 p. m. ceremony on Academy Green culminating the Salute to Italy week in Kingston.

The guest speaker received recent nationwide attention for his successful fight to have the television network eliminate the excessive use of Italian names from its program, "The Untouchables." He is currently involved in a three-way fight for the office of president of the Borough of Manhattan.

Won Literature Prize

A graduate of New York schools, Santangelo holds a B.A. degree from City College, New York, and an LL.B. degree from Columbia Law School. He was admitted to the Bar in April, 1939 and while at college was awarded the Dante Literature prize.

A member of the Speakers Bureau of Tammany Hall, Santangelo is also a member of the board of governors of the Pocomass Club and of the Grand Street Boys Club. He is executive director of the Pocomass Club and a leader of the 16th Assembly District South of the New York County Democratic organizations of the State of New York.

President of Federation

The guest speaker is president of the Federation of the Italian-American Democratic organizations of New York and was vice-president of the New York City Metropolitan Area of Alpha Phi Delta Fraternity, a national organization, during 1955-57.

Santangelo is a member of Fourth Degree Assembly, Knights of Columbus, an executive member of the Manhattan Council, Boy Scouts of America and a member of the Elks. He was vice-chairman of the Lexington District, Boy Scouts of America and has been active in many charitable and civic drives in New York.

He has received many awards (Continued on Page 8, Col. 3)

To See Consultant On Change for Plaza

Advice of a consultant will be sought before a decision on a zoning change required for building a shopping center in an uptown area, the Common Council's laws and rules committee decided Thursday night.

Opinion from experts was the first of six proposals made Tuesday by the Uptown Business Men's Association.

Thomas Muradian Jr., of Whitestone, Mass., operator of New England shopping centers, announced last April 5, that he planned to build The Kingston Shoppers Plaza on a tract off Fair Street Extension and beyond the Kingston Lumber Co.

It was found that a business zone designation would be required for the site and a hearing on the petition for the change was held recently.

Further Data Sought

The laws and rules committee decided that it did not have enough information and proposed further study with the advice of an expert. The committee is headed by Alderman Lawrence E. Woerner (D) Fourth Ward, and its other members are: John P. Heitzman (D) 12th Ward; Edward J. Schrowang (R) First Ward; and Joseph F. Carroll, Jr. (R) 11th Ward.

Alderman-at-Large Harold L. Kaye also serves on the committee, but he has disqualified himself from procedure dealing with the petition because of personal interest.

Common Council action on the petition is required in 90 days. It was filed June 6.

Stand Taken by Merchants

The uptown merchants in advising that an expert or experts be consulted, said: "Emotions have run high, but no independent, unprejudiced advice from experts in business or on city planning has been sought. We are certain that the National Retail Merchants Association, and Howard Business School would provide such experts on business. Others on city planning are available. The issues are too big; the cost of failure too high to be taken lightly."

Three Surrender

The three voluntarily surrendered for questioning Thursday night some six hours after ex-convict Richard Blaney was killed outside his home on his 27th birthday when his automobile was ripped by an explosion as he turned on the ignition. Last August, Richard's brother, Vincent, 27, who had been expected to be a prosecution witness in the burglary case, was slain in gangland-style.

Brown said Mrs. Reis, an attractive divorcee who at one time danced in chorus lines, Staino, who at one time managed her nightclub, and Berkery denied any connection with the slaying of Richard Blaney.

Says $20,000 Taken

Police Thursday night were trying to find for questioning Robert H. Poulson, 25, a third man convicted in the burglary in Pottsville, in northeastern Pennsylvania, which authorities claim netted nearly a half million dollars in cash. ## 35 Units To Parade Saturday Vols Will Hold Election Tonight

Thirty-five fire companies will be in the line of march Saturday in New Paltz at the annual firemen's parade, which marks the conclusion of the 26th anniversary of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association. Interspersed throughout the line of march will be 16 musical units.

The parade will get underway promptly at 5 p. m. starting at Joalyn Road and ending at the Campus School field.

There will be three divisions in the formation. Scheduled to participate in the parade in connection with observance of its 10th anniversary will be 60 New Paltz boys, members of the Little New Paltz League.

Companies Participating are:

First Division
New Paltz Fire Department, Gardiner Fire Department, Marlboro Hose Company, Woodstock Fire Company, Kerhonkson Fire Department, Hurley Fire Department, Clintondale Fire Department, Ellenville Fire Department, Tillson Fire Department, Binnewater Fire Department, Cottekill Fire Department, Bloomington Fire Department, Rosendale Fire Department.

Second Division

Goshen Fire Department, Walker Valley Fire Department, Port Ewen Fire Department, Maiden West Camp, Kripplush Fire Department, Milton Fire Department, Connelly Fire Department, Esopus Fire Department, West Hurley Fire Department, Ulster Hose No. 5, Spring Lake Fire Department.

Third Division

Cornwall Fire Department, Glasco Fire Department, Centerville Fire Company, Saugerties Fire Department, Phoenicia Fire Department, Wallkill Fire Department, Excelsior Fire Department, Modena Fire Department, A. H. Wicks Engine Company, Highland Hose Company, Saxton Fire Company.

Election Tonight

At the business meeting this evening in New Paltz, Oscar Lambert, chief of Esopus Fire Department, is expected to be elected president of the County Association. Lewis "Casey" Jones of Connelly, first vice president, who was in line for the presidency has notified Secretary Fred Harder, that he has recently become general manager of the company by which (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Mitchell Charges Evidence Sought To Remove Him

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—City Manager Joseph Mitchell charges that State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz apparently is seeking evidence to remove him from office. Mitchell has made national headlines with his 13-point program for cutting down welfare payments in this city.

In a statement issued Thursday night from his home, Mitchell said:

"It has come to my attention that Atty. Gen. Lefkowitz has asked the Republican chairman of Orange County to obtain for him copies of my broadcasts to the people of Newburgh, known as 'Capitol Commentaries' over Radio Station WGRN."

"To my knowledge, the Orange County chairman has not complied. In his request, the attorney general indicated he was seeking to determine if I had said anything to the effect of: (Continued on Page 8, Col. 2)

African-Asian Bloc Stands by Tunisia

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)

A bloc of 36 Asian and African nations pressed the U.N. Security Council today to back Tunisia's demand that France pull all her troops out of Tunisia and give up her huge naval and air base at Bizerte.

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld was expected to open the emergency council session with a report on his disappointing peace mission to Tunisia. U.N. sources said he would criticize the French, who refused to confer with him.

Yugoslavia Joins

Yugoslavia joined 36 of the 46 Asian-African nations in the U.N. in a letter to the council president, Leopoldo Benites of Ecuador, demanding that France, as a first step, obey the council's call to withdraw her troops to the positions they held before last week's fighting.

The council was urged further to acknowledge Tunisia's right "not to tolerate the presence of foreign forces or foreign military bases" and to call for quick negotiations.

Hammarskjöld returned Thursday night from a flying visit to Tunisia, that Tunisian officials said did little to bring a solution to the explosive crisis.

French Refuse

French military authorities in Tunisia refused to even see the secretary-general and the French government declined to invite him to Paris for talks. Hammarskjöld made his trip on the invitation of Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba, and the French treated it as a private mission.

The United States supported the council resolution last Saturday calling for a cease-fire in Tunisia and for both sides to withdraw to pre-battle positions. The Tunisians complained because Washington did not pressure the French to give up the Bizerte base immediately. And France's cold shoulder to Hammarskjöld embarrassed the Americans further in view of their long record of support for the secretary-general as a peacemaker and mediator.

Chyrel was calm during the hearing but became excited as she was escorted from the courtroom past newsmen and photographers.

"I'm not going to go by the reporters and you ain't going to make me," she shouted at a police matron.

Will Ask Firm Stand In Paris

Foreign Ministers Meeting on Aug. 5

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration was reported today to be holding in reserve a wide range of military and diplomatic actions which may be taken by the United States and its European allies as the Berlin crisis develops.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk will try in Paris next week to get firm agreements with allied foreign ministers on a succession of steps designed in part, at least, to give the Western powers some initiative in dealing with the Soviet Union on the Berlin problem.

Meeting Aug. 5

The foreign ministers meeting involving the United States, Britain, France and West Germany begins Aug. 5. It may lead to a Western summit conference of President Kennedy, French President Charles de Gaulle and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Ultimately if East-West negotiations over Berlin produce any progress toward ending the crisis, diplomatic exchanges could lead to a summit conference with Soviet Premier Khrushchev. At the present, however, that is more a possibility in the background of official thinking than a serious long-range prospect.

Only a Starter

Administration informants said Kennedy's Berlin action program laid before the nation Tuesday night was only a starter. They said that what Kennedy and Rusk contemplate is a series of steps which will be put into effect as the maneuvering between the Western powers and the Soviet Union over the future of Berlin takes its shape in coming months.

Possible future moves on the military side include sending reinforcements to NATO defenses in Europe and speeding up the mobilization of U.S. strength if circumstances seem to require.

On the diplomatic side, concern in the State Department and the White House now is centered on the development of specific proposals which the Western powers (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Newburgh Has New Director of Welfare Bureau

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — A new welfare commissioner was appointed today in this Hudson Valley city, which recently adopted a stringent new relief program that has stirred wide controversy.

The City Council chose Peter Petrillo Jr., 32, of Newburgh Township, an Ithaca College graduate who has been a teacher and housing settlement worker.

Petrillo succeeds John O'Donnell, who resigned as commissioner early this month on the ground that he regarded some of the new relief restrictions as illegal.

Mrs. Doris Harding, deputy welfare commissioner, served as acting commissioner in the meantime. She is resuming her position as deputy.

Petrillo told newsmen he regarded the new welfare program as legal and just, but that it was possible he might change his mind on some phases of it. He said every case would be judged on its own merits.

Republicans Plan Attack on Kennedy's Financing of Long-Term Aid Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans have laid plans for an attack on the way President Kennedy proposes to finance his long-term foreign aid program.

The Republicans plan to launch their attack on the Senate floor, where the program faces a close vote. They hope to turn it back, or at least to curtail it sharply.

The program may face even rougher going in the House, where debate probably will start next week.

The administration seeks authority to make up the $8.8 billion in loan commitments over a five-year period. Of this total,

Kennedy wants to borrow $7.3 billion from the Treasury without specific year-to-year congressional appropriations. The balance would come from repayment of post-war loans.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee gave the program the green light Thursday. The action, by undisclosed vote, was tentative, but formal approval is expected Tuesday.

The committee also okayed $4.355,500,000 in foreign grants and loans for the current fiscal year, $407 million less than Kennedy had asked.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved the lending program Monday after trimming Kennedy's request for this year by $346 million. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana plans to call up the measure tonight, hoping to open debate Monday.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Republicans will offer various amendments on the Senate floor to reject or curtail Kennedy's requested borrowing authority.

They will make proposals to: 1. Authorize the five-year development fund, but require congressional appropriations to finance it. 2. Authorize the Treasury borrowing procedure, but restrict the program to two or three years. 3. Reduce the over-all totals for the loan program.

Grieving Father Blames TV for Son Shooting Man

GUNTERSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A grieving father says his 11-year-old son learned to kill from television.

"I can't think of any other answer," said Junior Franks, the father.

William Earl Franks told his father at the Marshall County jail how he waylaid a rural mail carrier and shot him to death with a rifle.

Joseph R. Thompson, 37, the postman, was killed Wednesday about 300 yards from the house near the Grant community where William Earl lived with his divorced father and grandmother.

"I think the main cause is TV," the father said in a telephone interview. "He liked the war pictures and Westerns."

Franks described his son as normal and said he made better than average grades at the grammar school at Grant, where he had been promoted to the sixth grade.

Franks said he gave his son the rifle for Christmas two years ago.

Sheriff Warren Jones said the boy gave a statement Thursday describing how he raised the flag on a rural mail box, causing the postman to stop, and then shot him to death.

The sheriff said he used the mail in the car to set the vehicle on fire.

The boy was held in Marshall County jail but no charges were filed immediately.

The postman's cash box was found open in the car. The amount of money taken was not known. None was recovered.

The sheriff said several books of stamps and the postman's watch were recovered.

Five expended .22-caliber cartridges were found beside the car. Jones and sheriff's deputies began a search for a rifle. It was this search that led them to the Franks house.

Three Auto Plant Workers Held in $200,000 Betting

NORTH TARRYTOWN, N. Y. (AP) — While assembling automobiles, some of the employees at the Chevrolet division of the General Motors plant here have been making policy bets on the side, authorities charged today.

They seized three workers, accusing them of operating the numbers racket in the plant, and taking in more than $200,000 a year from it.

Officers of the North Tarrytown police, the Westchester County sheriff's office and the district attorney's office closed in on the three men in a locker room, where they were collecting bet receipts.

They had about $1,000 in their possession at the time, along with a batch of policy-slip plays, police said.

Arrested were Joseph Thompson, 29, of New York City, a truck driver, described as ringleader of the operation; Alfonso Murawski, 42, of Ossining; and Raymond Albert, 26, of New York City.

Profit Plan Is Offered Workers By Motors Corp.

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. today offered the United Auto Workers Union a profit-sharing wage plan and a seven-cent hourly wage increase annually over the next three years.

In exchange, American Motor asked the UAW to give up cost-of-living allowance and annual improvement factor clauses in their current contract expiring Sept. 7.

AMC's was the first settlement offer handed the UAW in negotiations started a month ago with the auto industry. In 1958, profit-sharing was the union's principal goal but it failed to get it.

AMC would set aside the first 10 per cent of profits before taxes for its stockholders, then set aside the next 10 per cent to what it termed a progressive sharing fund for hourly rated union employees.

American Motors offered customers a rebate program last winter, the refund depending upon total sales. In only one month did sales sufficiently outstrip those the similar month a year earlier and consequently only one $25 rebate savings bond was paid to Rambler buyers of December.

BLACKLISTED

DEADLY SERIOUS: It might be considered serious today to be blacklisted from a job, but the original blacklist carried a death penalty. ## State Draft Quota Is Upped 60 PC

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State's August draft quota has been increased about 60 per cent to meet President Kennedy's program to expand the armed forces.

The Upstate-Long Island quota for August rose from 310 to 503, Col. William H. Boughton, state director of Selective Service, announced today.

Selective Service officials in New York City announced that 706 men would be drafted next month. The quota before was 434.

Kingston Realtor To Represent Area In National Group

Harold W. O'Connor, a member of Ulster County Board of Realtors, has been appointed local representative of the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers, headquarters office in Chicago, announced today.

The institute, composed of 16,000 realtors, is the largest affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and has as its main objective the education of its members to serve the public better.

One of O'Connor's most important duties will be to stimulate panel discussions on brokerage problems at real estate board meetings and during state conventions. Through such discussions, Realtors are kept constantly up-to-date on new and improved methods in the way of realty advertising, financing and taxation. They are thus better able to serve the public in home buying and other realty investments.

George Moyer is membership chairman for the State of New York.

O'Connor, a native of Kingston, has been engaged in the real estate business for the past 15 years. He is presently vice-president of Ulster County Board of Realtors and has been membership chairman for the past several years. He is also a director of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, a past secretary and charter member of Kingston Lions Club, a member of the American Legion, Catholic War Veterans, Ulster Business Men's Association and the Knights of Columbus. He is married to the former Margaret Ryan and is the father of a daughter, Mary, who is a student at Mt. St. Aloysius in Cresson, Pa.

Reserve Plans

car make to the Soviet Union for a way out of the Berlin crisis.

Keeps Them Secret

Rusk refused at a news conference Thursday to give any indication of what form these proposals might take. But in reply to a series of questions he would not rule out any possibility. The questions raised such matters as removing "irritants" to the Soviet Union in the operations of the Western powers in West Berlin.

Rusk declined to specify even what "irritants" the West might be willing to negotiate with the Soviet Union. In the past, however, the Western powers have expressed willingness to curtail propaganda activities in Berlin, to put a ceiling on Western troop strength in West Berlin (it is around 11,000 men) and to give assurance that the troops would not be provided with atomic weapons. The Soviet Union has shown little interest in such proposed concessions.

Seek Peaceful Way

Rusk told his news conference: "We expect that negotiations will in fact at some stage take place and that we and our allies will try on our side to find opportunities for a peaceful adjustment of the situation which could be very dangerous."

If the Soviets are concerned about the rearmament of Western Germany, he said, the fact is that this rearmament has taken place in Germany as a part of the Western community. And the attitude of the Western community and of Western Germany "is not to provoke a war over matters which can be settled by peaceful means."

Three Inducted

Three men were inducted into the U.S. Army July 25 by local draft boards. They are: John Norman Niles, Lay Street, Lincoln Park; Thomas Melford Cragan, 53 Emerick Street, and Carl Eric Anderson, Olive Bridge. All draft boards soon are to receive orders for increased quotas.

Reach Agreement On Satellites for Commercial Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — A cooperative agreement for development and testing communications satellites next year was announced today.

The agreement was signed by Dr. Robert C. Canam Jr., associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and Frederick R. Kappel, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Under terms of the agreement, AT&T will design and build two to four satellites at its own expense.

The company will reimburse NASA for the costs of the Thor-Delta launching vehicles, launching and tracking facilities, and Cape Canaveral, Fla., launch-crew services and range facilities.

AT&T will report to NASA the results of the experiments and other information bearing on the communications satellite programs.

NASA said that all the experimental data and project results would be made available to the world scientific community. President Kennedy has invited other nations to cooperate in developing a worldwide satellite communications system.

The satellites will be spherical in shape and will weigh 125 pounds each. They will be launched into orbits ranging in altitudes of 600 and 3,000 miles.

Experiments in television, two-way telephone, radio and telegraph transmissions will be conducted between AT&T stations at Ramfjord, Maine, and Holmdel, N.J., by way of the satellites.

Signals will be beamed to the satellites on a frequency of 6390 megacycles, and the satellite will transmit to ground stations on 4170 megacycles.

Will to Survive Important, Says Wilson to Legion

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson said today Americans could not be blackmailed into forsaking their principles by clear threats if they "have the will to survive."

Wilson said Americans should demonstrate this will by building fallout shelters for protection against radioactivity in event of nuclear attack.

The lieutenant governor spoke at the 43rd convention of the New York State American Legion. About 4,000 delegates are attending.

Wilson also praised the Legion members for supporting strong national defense efforts.

"You have survived the sneers and attacks of pseudo sophisticated, cynics and appeasers," Wilson said.

Order Is Issued To Boil All Water In Athens Village

An order to boil all drinking water in the Greene County Village of Athens was issued Thursday by Mayor Henry Coon.

The boiling order will be in effect for about three days while chemicals added by water department officials clear up the muddy condition of the supply.

The roily condition was created by the use of a long unused emergency pump and pipeline in order to meet the increased demand for water in the village. Water Superintendent Harold Hallenbeck said the consumption of water in the village has almost doubled.

He said the auxiliary unit was needed to pump additional supply from Hollister Lake to a holding reservoir on the village outskirts. The water coming into household lines at the present time is brown colored.

5 on Trial Today

For Luring People To West Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — Five East Germans went on trial today in Red-ruled East Berlin charged with espionage and luring refugees into West Berlin.

The East Germans blame the mounting flow of refugees into West Berlin on Western agents who they claim entice persons into fleeing. Western officials deny the accusation.

The official East German news agency ADN said that besides delivering secrets to the West, the five defendants collected information about prominent East Germans which they delivered to West German and U.S. agents.

The agents then used the information to threaten, blackmail and trick the East Germans into leaving. ADN said.

Visible Means of Support

—These West Germans are repeating a years-old historical event as they carry their menfolk on their backs. In 1140, their small town of Weinsberg was besieged by an enemy army. The siege commander told the women that they could leave the town, carrying only their most valuable possessions. They did and outsmarted the enemy. They carried their husbands, brothers and fathers out on their backs, saving their lives.

Big Three Meet W. Germany on Berlin Strategy

PARIS (AP) — Experts from the Big Three Western powers and West Germany met today to begin mapping a joint diplomatic strategy on Berlin and Germany.

The experts are preparing for the foreign ministers conference here Aug. 5-7 and a special meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization council Aug. 8, when Western plans for meeting a possible Berlin crisis will be hammered out.

Foy D. Kohler, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, headed the American delegation.

Gagarin Leaves Cuba for Brazil, Tired by Castro

HAVANA (AP) — Yuri Gagarin left for Brazil today after a four-day visit that dramatized the Soviet Union's support for Fidel Castro's revolution. Castro and his Cabinet saw him off at the airport.

The boyish, smiling 27-year-old Soviet astronaut closed out his official appearances here Thursday night with a television show at Havana University. He sidestepped political questions from a panel of professors, students and Cuban newsmen.

However, in an allusion to the United States, he said his space flight "cooled the hot heads of some persons who think only in terms of war."

Gagarin came to Havana to help Castro celebrate the eighth anniversary of the start of the 26th of July Movement. He remained on the platform for seven hours Wednesday as Castro announced plans for a Communist-style single "united party of the Socialist revolution."

The exertions of keeping up with Castro in the unaccustomed Havana heat obviously tired Gagarin.

Today, Castro sent a message to the people of the Communist world in connection with the anniversary.

"We want to thank all our brothers who are helping us so much for showing immense solidarity with the Cuban revolution," the message said. "The Cuban people are alert against North American (U.S.) imperialism, and thanks to the solidarity of all Socialist countries, the Cuban revolution will succeed over any attempted aggression."

Final Plans Made For Ulster Fair On August 16, 17

Final plans for the Ulster County Fair here on August 16 and 17 were made at a meeting of the Board of Directors last night. The fair sponsored by the Ulster County Agricultural Society takes place at Forsyth Park on Lucas Avenue.

When the carton of fair posters was opened last night for distribution a serious problem confronted the directors. The wrong dates were printed on the cards.

As the fair is free to the public, the only income is derived from the rental of commercial space and entry fees in the various competitive departments. A large tent is rented to house the commercial exhibits and several spaces are still available. Outside space is also available at a very modest fee.

The Ulster County Fair is the only official fair in New York State to which no admission is charged. The city permits the use of Forsyth Park for the fair as well as the stadium grounds for parking. The big task of cleaning up the park after the fair is a major contribution on the part of the city according to comments made by the fair officials.

Information about commercial exhibits at the Ulster County Fair on August 16 and 17 may be obtained from Albert Kurdt, manager of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce.

Approval Given On Transfer of Airline Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board today announced tentative approval of an agreement for Eastern Airlines to transfer to Mohawk Airlines its authority to serve seven airports in New York and two in Vermont.

Four of the points — Saranac Lake-Lake Placid and Plattsburgh, N.Y., and Rutland and Burlington, Vt., will be new points for Mohawk.

The other towns—Poughkeepsie, Albany, Glens Falls, Massena and Watertown, N.Y.—now are served by both Mohawk and Eastern.

The CAB imposed a condition on the Feb. 15 agreement that Mohawk will be ineligible for federal subsidy for operations over the transferred routes. The airlines can apply, however, for removal of this condition at a future time.

The agreement also had called for possible transfer from Eastern to Mohawk of authority to operate between cities in Upstate New York and Vermont and Montreal and Ottawa, Canada.

The CAB said any decision on these matters must be submitted to President Kennedy for approval before they can be made public.

The board said its announcement was not its final decision. That decision will be entered formally and issued at a later date.

Says 3 Networks Responsible for TV Crime, Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — A television show producer said today the three major networks are responsible for what he considers excessive crime and violence on TV.

He testified the networks write letters asking for less violence, but make telephone calls urging "more sex, more violence, and blacker villains so we can kill them off in one big climax."

The witness, Maurice J. Unger, Hollywood manager for Ziv-United Artists, Inc., said there would be less crime and violence on shows seen by children if Congress "reduced the excessive power" of the three men who head the big networks.

He said the three have a stronghold on programs and have "more power than the Constitution gives Congress or the Supreme Court."

He added that if the Senate Juvenile Delinquency subcommittee, headed by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., wants to improve shows, "it can convince the seven men on the Federal Communications Commission to curb the powers of the three men in the networks."

Unger and A. Frank Reel, vice president in charge of business affairs for Ziv-United Artists, testified at an inquiry into the effect of some TV programs on youngsters.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Wait until the second half is the cry today of a growing number of companies reporting on their profits in the first six months of 1961.

A majority of nearly 600 reporting so far have shown declines from their net income in the first half of 1960. Combined the decline comes to 11.5 per cent.

But a sizable number have shown increases in the April-June quarter from the earnings in the first three months. Even more have shown gains in sales, while profits lagged. And a majority of those making predictions say they expect earnings to look better during the final six months of the year.

Some Striking Gains

Although the majority show the lingering effects of the recession in their first half statements, there have been some striking gains.

And Wall Street—which divides its attention between the flood of earnings reports and the Berlin crisis—has taken heart from the pleasant number of those who have been able to set records. For these the recession was only something the other fellow felt.

Of 593 nonfinancial corporations recorded so far, 263 report 1961 profits higher than the 1960 first half, and 330 show declines. This year 39 report net losses, compared to 30 a year ago.

Leaders of Parade

Leading the parade of those with increasing profits were American Telephone & Telegraph, International Business Machines, Douglas Aircraft, Gulf Oil, Socony Mobil, American Tobacco, Reynolds Tobacco, Republic Aviation, Borden, American Can, Colgate Palmolive, Maytag, United Air Lines.

But more than offsetting these gains were the declining profits reported by General Motors, General Electric, Du Pont, U.S. Steel, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, RCA, Eastman Kodak, Goodrich, Firestone, Union Carbide, International Harvester, Swift and Armour.

Rails, Steel Lag

A disappointing number of Eastern Railroads reported net losses for the period. Railroad earnings as a whole were trailing last year by about 90 per cent.

The steel industry, with the tally nearing an end, was 48 per cent behind the 1960 figures. All the big companies trailed, although for many second quarter results rallied from first quarter setbacks.

Offsetting this, most utilities pulled ahead of a year ago and early returns from the oil industry show 1961 profits higher by 15 per cent. Makers of containers are running 11.3 per cent ahead of the 1960 returns. Brewers and soft drink makers are up 4.3 per cent. Makers of electrical appliances report a 2.3 per cent rise.

Others on Downside

Other leading industries don't show up so well. With most of the chemical companies recording declines, the industry dip is 13.3 per cent. Six of the 10 drug firms were on the downside, with the combined decline 10 per cent.

The electronics industry is off 21 per cent. Paper and paper products trail 1960 results by 11.6 per cent. Glass makers are down 27 per cent.

Building materials providers as a whole are off 9.3 per cent, with the cement segment of the industry off 4.8 per cent.

Meat packers' earnings fell 45.6 per cent, although other companies in the food industry show 14 ahead and 5 declining, with the total figures just about even with last year.

As many textile firms gained over last year as fell behind, but the declines were heavier dollar-wise and the industry dipped 41 per cent.

Four out of five rubber companies declined for an industry drop of 9.4 per cent.

Rocky Rejects Silver Shovel, Asks for an Ax

RENSSELAERVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller, regarded as presidential timber for 1964, chopped down a pine tree Thursday.

He rejected a silver shovel for a traditional ground-breaking ceremony, asked for an ax, took off his coat and went to work on the 5-inch-thick tree. A final push by a construction worker toppled the pine.

The event marked the start of construction in this mountain community 25 miles southwest of Albany of a state camp to rehabilitate juvenile delinquents.

Because forestry will be a major feature of the rehabilitation program, the governor said cutting down a tree was more appropriate than wielding a shovel.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 28, 1961

SOFT WORDS, BIG STICK

The most effective way to sum up the import of President Kennedy's report to Americans is to use his own summation: "We seek peace—but we shall not surrender. That is the central meaning of this crisis—and the meaning of your government's policy."

This was the essential counterpoint that ran through Mr. Kennedy's speech: we are ready to talk—"willing to consider," as the chief executive put it, "any arrangement or treaty in Germany consistent with the maintenance of peace and freedom and with the legitimate security interests of all nations"—but we also are ready to fight, if necessary, to uphold our commitments and defend freedom.

The President made it plain, through particular emphasis, that he considers this two-fold approach of vital importance. He noted that either talk or force alone would fail, but that "together, they can serve the cause of peace and freedom." He stressed the crucial point that "the choice is not merely between resistance and retreat, but between atomic holocaust and surrender." That, in other words, there is still room for negotiation.

Mr. Kennedy went further than that. He said that the United States was willing to submit to adjudication the West's rights in Berlin. He also reiterated our willingness to submit to a vote of Berliners or all Germans the question whether our presence in Berlin is desirable.

But the President also—and this, doubtless, will carry the most weight with the Kremlin—detailed the extent of a long-range military buildup designed to give us a big stick to go with our soft words. His address said; temperately yet unmistakably: We will talk; we will not yield; we have the power to back our position.

A SENSE OF FAIR PLAY

The far left accuses the far right of raising phony issues, and vice versa. Both would do well to consider the obligations imposed by the ideal of fair play.

Example: The arch-conservatives intone unctuously, "This is a republic, not a democracy. Let's keep it that way." The implication is that trouble has overtaken us because we have become a democracy, not a republic. But the definitions of a democracy and a republic are all but synonymous. We use a republican form of government to govern a free democratic society. Ours is both a republic and a democracy. That's how we should keep it.

Example: "Conservatism seeks to set up a fascist dictatorship." Far from being true, this ignores the fact that true conservatives labor to prevent a wasting of our nation's resources to the point where the people will turn to a dictator to restore a sound economy.

Example: "Liberalism is tantamount to socialism and, like it, a way-station on the road to communism." This is untrue. True liberalism, like true conservatism, fights for reforms within the democratic system, in order to prevent abuses which give communism a chance to take root here.

Groups which distort the aims of their rivals do America the dangerous disservice of dividing us at a time when complete unity is vital. In doing so they lay themselves open to doubt as to their honesty, whether they claim to be liberals or conservatives.

IT'S NOT SO SOOTHING

It was William Congreve, not William Shakespeare, who wrote: "Music hath charms to soothe the savage beast, to soften rocks, or bend a knotted oak." Still, who is going to dispute the authority of a statement quoted so approvingly and so often during the past couple of centuries?

But a question arises. What is to soothe the poor listener when the music he hears seems to have been composed by a savage in the first place? Some of the pop tunes that assault the unwary ear these days would soften rocks, all right. Not with

THE TWENTIETH CENTURY

The other night, I was at Tanglewood listening to a bit of sarcastic programming that could not have been accidental. William Schuman, a contemporary American composer, was squeezed in between Robert Schumann and Ludwig van Beethoven.

The American composer had an augmented orchestra and used all the noise-making percussion instruments he could think of. We had been listening for a couple of weeks to Bach and Mozart and they managed to be heard with very small orchestras, but the American had to have enough instruments so he could scream. Otherwise, we should not have heard him!

I asked an eminent musician what the noise was all about, he replied:

"It is the twentieth century."

This is a characteristic remark by those who cannot explain away current absurdities. The twentieth century is not all noise, perhaps not really as much noise as the end of the 18th century and the beginning of the 19th when the troops of Napoleon marched through Europe. No century has a monopoly on stupidity, just as no century has a monopoly on wisdom, although some have been better than others. Surely no century enjoyed any particular right to noise.

There is, of course, another, a constructive side to the twentieth century which in the first six decades of its being has produced greater advances in certain fields of knowledge, in physics, chemistry, astrophysics, anthropology, archeology, in the exploration through the Antarctic and through space in an effort to reach the moon, in medicine and psychology. The twentieth century is not all noise or only noise. The Earth has been orbited by the brilliance of man; the atom has been smashed and reconstructed. Distance has been annihilated and time is losing all meaning.

True, we are a disturbed generation, but disturbance is not necessarily noise or even excitement. It may be sadness, regret, hurt. It may mean loss of faith. It may be fear of death. There are movements in Beethoven's symphonies which fit the mood of the twentieth century more closely than Schuman's noise. The responses of man to identical stimuli are the same, no matter what the century.

The distinguished musician who said: "It is the twentieth century," does not at all grasp the heart-ache of this period, the break-down of long-existent institutions, the uncertainty of the future. It is not necessary to have a chorus of drums to note the downfall of the Roman Empire. It took a long time to fall, almost as long as it took to rise. Julius Caesar was assassinated in 44 B.C., Octavianus became Emperor in 27 B.C. At this moment Rome was at its apex and Constantine became Emperor in 312 A.D. But the Roman Empire was split and the downward to the so-called barbarians was imminent. By the sixth century, Rome was no longer great. It submitted to what we call the Middle Ages, that is, the rule of Western Europe by the Roman Catholic Church as the successor to the Roman Empire.

And this tells the amazing story of little, bearded, poor men who came to Rome out of Palestine and Syria to preach an ideal, the concept of the God of Israel, one God for all mankind, who revealed to man the Natural Law through Moses and the Prophets and later through Jesus and the Apostles and Man rose from an idolatrous, sensual, materialistic life to find both joy and fear in God and to live by mercy and love. And that is our civilization which is now at the point of survival or death.

This is more the twentieth century than the terrific imitation of street noises and factory noises which our current American composers believe describes the age in which they live. But they do not live in such an age as they can hardly describe any more than the Russian composers live in the kind of dissonance which they enjoyed when they were still revolutionists. More and more, our generation is fighting back. We are not to be conquered by immorality and confusion. We are to build a stronger civilization on the foundations we inherited. This, to me, is a more realistic outlook upon the twentieth century.

Mr. Schuman was present to listen to himself squeeze between Robert Schumann and Beethoven's violin concerto. It is something for him to ponder.

Treatments Help Dull

Allergy to Poison Ivy

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My two girls are very allergic to poison ivy. The one I can cure with creams but the other doesn't respond to the same medication at all. My doctor was very vague when I questioned him about preventive pills. Are there on the market? Do they do any good?

A—Aqua Ivy Tablets are on the market and properly taken have proven effective in 8 of every group of 10 who previously suffered from poison ivy. In a carefully controlled study by Dr. M. A. Vassale of Palisades, N. Y., treatment was preceded by skin tests using a poison extract in dilutions of one to 100, one to 1,000 and one to 10,000. All those with positive tests were treated. However, those who showed the greatest sensitivity were treated more cautiously. And, of course, no one was treated at a time when exposed to, or suffering from, sensitivity to poison ivy, oak or sumac.

The suggested preventive schedule starts at least three months before the expected time of exposure. A half tablet or less is taken daily for the first two weeks, a whole tablet daily for the next two weeks and one and a half tablets thereafter until 100 have been taken. Except for an occasional eruption of blisters, usually on the webbing of the fingers, no side effects of treatment are usually encountered.

Q—My daughter has to wear glasses. She thinks they detract from her appearance and now wants to be fitted for contact lenses. Is this perfectly safe?

A—Most often contact lenses produce no ill effects when properly fitted. However, whether due to poor fitting or individual sensitivity, certain persons develop changes involving the white of the eyes (corneas) and the inner lining of the lids (conjunctivae). These changes consist of corneal stippling, speckling and even scrapes (abrasions), conjunctival redness (congestion) and excessive tearing.

While I sympathize with your daughter, who has probably been influenced by repetition of the verse to the effect that "men seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses," I would not, myself, approve of the use of contact lenses for so trivial an excuse. Certainly, no worth-while girl is going to ignore a worth-while girl merely because she wears glasses. And, as for the others, they're a dime a dozen.

dulcet sound, but through the sheer volume of rhythmic cacophony.

This is nothing new. A lot of popular, or at least frequently played, music always grates on the sensitive ear. But there come moments when it would be a delight to "bend a knotted oak"—right over some caterwauling singer's dome.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

The United States pays its respects to the largest and one of the most promising of all the new African nations in the official visit of state to this country, by Alhaji, the Honorable, Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, Knight Commander of the British Empire, Member of Parliament and now prime minister of the Federation of Nigeria.

NIGERIA IS A COUNTRY of 40 million people, about the size of New England and Texas together, just above the equator on Africa's torrid west coast. But the differences between the development of Nigeria and the Congo are so marked as to make it difficult to find both products of colonialism.

Abubakar heads a delegation of 10 officials of his government who will be in the United States until Aug. 1. He'll be president Kennedy's Blair House guest for three days. After that he will visit Chicago, the Tennessee valley and make a pilgrimage to Gettysburg—to pay his respects to Abraham Lincoln, who is one of his heroes.

The prime minister's interest in TVA is that Nigeria has a dam and valley development project on the Niger River, for which it is seeking $150 million financing. No commitments have been given, but the whole project has been found feasible by World Bank and U. S. and British governments.

In fact, the whole Nigerian economy is considered a prime prospect for long-term development loans under the new Kennedy foreign aid program, if it is approved by Congress.

U.S. AID TO NIGERIA is currently running $14 million a year, an increase from $3.5 million in 1960. But it is almost certain to increase next year in three principal fields—education, agricultural research and industry.

The United States is now assisting in the development of the new University of Nigeria, modeled after an American land grant college. Harvard University has just opened a training program for 45 secondary school teachers who will go to Nigeria this fall under the Peace Corps program.

Arnold Rivkin of Massachusetts Institute of Technology recently completed a study of Nigeria's seven year plan, begun when it was still a British dependency. The country became independent last October but remains in the commonwealth. Rivkin will return to Nigeria soon to help in completion of its new five year plan, which will be launched next spring.

U.S.-Nigerian trade—about $20 million last year—is picking up rapidly since Nigeria removed restrictions on dollar imports. There is a U.S.-Nigerian chamber of commerce in New York City. Chase-Manhattan and Bank of America have branches in Nigeria. Following Shell's discovery of oil in southern Nigeria, four major American producers are moving in.

Currently, the major U.S. aid projects are for port construction in Lagos, the capital, and railroad development to the interior.

THE THING THAT DISTINGUISHES Nigeria most, however, is its stable government. It has a British-trained civil service

Britain Begins to Move On Communist Infiltration

By DAVID LAWRENCE

IN EUROPE—They are beginning to wake up in Britain to Communist infiltration—a trend that regrettably has not yet been paralleled in continental countries such as France and Italy.

The British Labor Party's national executive committee—including Hugh Gaitskell, the party's leader—has decided to inquire into the possible expulsion of the Electrical Trades Union from the Labor Party because it has several Communist officers. The 170,000 members of the E. T. U. pay annually about $170,000 in political contributions to the Labor Party.

Follows Other Steps

The action of the executive committee follows the step also taken this week by the Trades Union Congress of Britain, which sent an ultimatum to the same electrical union demanding that it get rid of Communist officers at once or face suspension from the national trades union organization.

Here is an important union, with men in key jobs in the electric country, and up to now nothing has been done to tackle in earnest the problem of its Communist officials. A letter published by the London "Daily Telegraph" says on this point:

"We are spending millions of pounds on defense, yet our security can be destroyed if such services as power, water, railways can be disrupted by the plots of a small caucus of union leaders who in their blind devotion to Marxism would have no hesitation at the bidding of their Communist masters in destroying democracy in their own country."

Not Dominated

Fortunately, the largest unions in Britain are not dominated by Communists, though they have made steady efforts at infiltration. The London "Telegraph," in an editorial, insists that apathy among the rank and file of the members and their failure to vote in union elections have been a basic reason why the Communists get control. It adds:

"Action sterner than has been expected has finally been taken by the Trades Union Congress against the Communist-controlled executives of the Electrical Trades Union . . . The challenge doubtless came all the more of a shock to the Communist leaders of the E.T.U. in view of their past disposition to play upon the reluctance of the Trades Union Congress to intervene in union affairs."

"With only one abstention, the general council has voted in support of a move to break the grip of the Communists on the E.T.U.'s affairs. This means among other things that the union's executive (committee) was given ten days of grace in which to rescind their decision which nullify the powers of the new anti-Communist general secretary, Mr. Byrne."

But this is not the only significant step taken against Communist activities in Britain. The national executive committee of the British Labor Party—although clearing one of the party's members of Parliament who took part in a so-called "disarmament conference" at Oslo, Norway, sponsored by Communists—has just issued a warning against being taken in by so-called international conferences which ostensibly claim high motives but which are, in reality, Communist-inspired.

World Peace Council

A report on the investigation made by a committee of officers of the British Labor Party has found that most of the members of the organizing committee of the Oslo conference were also members of the "world peace council," which is one of the organizations on the blacklist of the British Labor Party.

Members of the Labor Party were advised to check hereafter with the general secretary before accepting such invitations, so that there would be an opportunity to determine whether the meetings are bona fide. In this instance, one of the initiators of the conference was Ilya Ehrenberg, a leading Soviet "peace" propagandist.

Those naive persons who are often asked to sign advertisements in the American press for various organizations—usually taking the Communist side of the argument in international policies—might profit by accepting the same kind of advice as that not given in Britain. Indeed, all the democracies are suffering from a lack of investigative machinery for the effective exposure of the intrigues of the Communists, who set up all sorts of international conferences to sway public opinion toward their point of view.

'Witch-Hunting'

The tendency in Britain, as well as in the United States, has been to regard as a form of "witch-hunting" all efforts to publicize Communist tactics. While there have been some cases in the United States in which innocent and well-meaning persons have been wrongly accused, there have been many more instances in which guilty ones have gotten away with their intrigues because of handicaps placed upon legislative committee which would otherwise expose them.

Softness in dealing with Communists in Britain has cost the world peace. Klaus Fuchs was "cleared" by the British, and his credentials were accepted by the American government. He then stole at a New Mexico laboratory the secrets of the atom bomb and gave them to Russia, which otherwise might have been delayed for many years in getting the nuclear weapons she has today. The whole history of the world might have been altered if Communist infiltration had been taken more seriously in Britain just a few years ago.

Mayors Afraid Rail Merger to Hurt Central Line

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Mayors of New York communities fear the New York Central Railroad may be forced to cut back service if the Baltimore & Ohio and Chesapeake & Ohio Railroads merge.

The subject was discussed yesterday at a closed meeting conducted by a state official, one mayor who attended said.

The state official, Director Arne C. Wiprud of the State Office of Transportation, declined to say what transpired.

The meeting of state officials, industrialists and mayors or representatives of seven cities was called to consider possible effects of the proposed B&O-C&O merger on rail transportation in New York.

Those attending included: Mayors Peter Barry of Rochester, Frank J. Martuscello of Amsterdam, Malcolm E. Ellis of Schenectady, Kris Kristensen of Syracuse, Anthony Henninger of Fannin, City Attorney James C. Fannin of Fulton, and Charles J. Palermo, deputy corporation counsel of Niagara Falls.

Meanwhile, the New York Central made another bid before the Public Service Commission in Albany to discontinue passenger service on its Adirondack Division.

The Central operates a daily round-trip passenger train on the division between Utica and Lake Placid.

The road said it has been losing money on the operation and also pointed out it suffered a $25-million, system-wide loss in the first half of 1961.

The PSC rejected a Central request earlier this year to discontinue the service. Yesterday's appeal for a reconsideration was heard by a PSC examiner, who will report his recommendation to the full commission.

Do You Remember
By SOPHIE MILLER
No doubt folks around here who have gardens are looking now for their fruit and vegetables with great interest. Remember when every fruit counter had 'home-grown' fruit and vegetables. Remember the strawberries, actually grown around here. I would like to know why nearly every time I ask about the tomatoes and strawberries, they tell me, "These are from Jersey." I remember when a farmer brought fresh fruits and vegetables, home grown, a few miles from here, and brought actually and really 'garden-fresh' to the late Barney Mann's fruit and vegetable store, next door to us, at 91 Broadway.

I see in Dutchess County, near the bridge, you could 'pick your own strawberries' and pay for what you chose from the strawberry bushes. Don't the strawberries and other fruits and vegetables grow on this side of the Rhinecliff-Kingston bridge anymore?

Victor G. Purcell, of Route 1, Box 106, High Falls, sent me a semi-weekly Kingston Freeman and Journal, of Friday, Aug. 23, 1912, which was saved. I take it, because it was the 50th Anniversary of the Civil War, which was mentioned before in this column.

Instead of war, I want to think about such pleasant items as strawberries. In this paper, they write about G. F. Regendahl of the Kingston Post Office, who then after office hours raised luscious berries. It seems he sent away for the plants to Iowa. He gathered one crop during the regular strawberry season, and then week of August he gathered another, and he said, they were blossoming again and he expected to gather another crop before the snow fell. They were known as the hybrid everbearing plants.

Here is an item about a new bridge at Old Hurley in 1912. The contracting firm of Hallock and Angle of Newburgh was building the small concrete bridge on the Hurley-Marbletown state highway. The bridge was located about 200 feet from the other side of Cutter's hotel at Old Hurley.

This from the 1912 paper: "George Hafer, employed by George Hauck's Sons Brewing Co., broke his right wrist while cranking the large auto truck on Monday."

One item interesting on the Civil War was about the Soldier and Sailor Monument erected in front of the City Hall in 1890. It seems the reunions of the 120th Regimental Union held annual picnics till about 1888, when the reunion was combined with public entertainment held at the armory for the benefit of the Ulster County Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument Association.

I take it at this 50th Anniversary in 1912 the entertainment proceeds amounted to some $250. This money added to other funds was added together until they had enough to have the monument made. It is said it was made from granite and has a bronze figure of a soldier and bronze figure of a sailor on either side of a shaft. I think the inscription reads: "To the soldiers and sailors of the County of Ulster—In the War for the Union—1861-1865. Their grateful fellow citizens."

Perhaps someday I will run across the newspaper which will give me the complete story on this monument. Who was the sculptor, how, where it was made, how much was collected and all the other details.

 Edward T. Green, Stone Ridge, represented the central schools of Ulster, Sullivan, Orange, and Rockland Counties at the 10th annual summer work conference of the Central School Boards Committee for Educational Research held at Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City, July 19-22.

The theme of the four-day program was "Meeting Tomorrow's Needs in Today's Schools."

Green, district principal at Rondout Valley Central School, was chairman of the day Thursday, July 20.

In action taken in New York, the committee went on record as firmly supporting the legislative recommendations of the New York State Educational Conference Board for 1962 and outlined several studies in the area of finance designed to complement the conference board recommendations.

Cite Careless Use
 Of Chemicals for Farm Safety Week

ITHACA — The careless use of chemicals on the farm can be hazardous to the farmer and his family, a Cornell University professor warns.

In a statement observing Farm Safety Week (July 23-29), Prof. Edward W. Foss, extension farm safety specialist at the New York State College of Agriculture, said: "Chemicals play an important role on today's farms. If used improperly, many insecticides, weed control chemicals, and fumigants can cause accidents ranging from slight headaches to death."

Require Accuracy
 Foss observed that the chemicals in use on farms today often are far more poisonous than those used previously. They require accurate measurement as well as careful handling, he declared.

"Refer to the manufacturer's directions," the professor continued. "If there are no directions, follow the recommendations of your extension specialist. One must remember, too, that chemicals used on the farm should be kept out of reach of children.

"We are using more and more chemicals for weed control today instead of relying on mechanical means of cultivation," Foss said. He cited the dangers of mishandling such chemicals as sulfuric acid, chlordane, and TBA (trichlorobenzoic acid).

Foss urged farmers to avoid careless disposal of unused poisonous chemicals. "The containers should be emptied and destroyed by burning or burial," he suggested.

Urges Skin Protection

One should use rubber gloves, masks, goggles, and other protective material when working with questionable and toxic materials. If an accident does occur, one should wash immediately and thoroughly with soap and water, and then wash all contaminated clothing and equipment with soap and water before re-use.

"Buy only enough chemicals for your current use," Foss said. "Keep chemicals away from food or feed, livestock, pets, children, and irresponsible persons."

Increase Reported
 By Five Ulster
 Savings, Loans

Ulster County's five savings and loan associations reported a $4,702,550 increase in their assets in the 12-month period ended June 30, bringing the total to a record $53,646,584. This represents a 9.6 per cent gain over the $48,944,034 in assets held by these associations on June 30, 1960, according to the Savings Association League of New York State.

Passing $5 billion for the first time, the combined assets for the New York State's 233 savings and loan associations reached $3,137,077,156 on June 30. They rose $392,630,236, or 13 per cent, in the 12-month period. "This is the largest increase in the history of these thrift and home-financing institutions," said David Ford, League president. "It exceeds the comparable period of 1959-60 by $168,099,227, or 39.6 per cent."

The League analysis shows that Ulster County associations have increased their assets since June 30, 1960 as follows: Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, from $16,429,252 to $17,839,834; Wallkill Valley Federal Savings and Loan Association, from $15,835,480 to $17,532,702; First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, from $13,977,203 to $15,311,054; Saugerties Savings and Loan Association, from $1,979,650 to $2,211,015; and Highland Savings and Loan Association, from $722,449 to $751,979.

Caution Is Given About Bats, Some Reported as Rabid

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A total of three cases of human rabies caused by bat bites in New York State this year is cause for concern, the State Health Department said today.

Health Commissioner Herman E. Hilleboe warned persons to avoid handling bats found on the ground.

He said persons bitten by bats should notify a physician.

A Health Department spokesman said three cases were considered significant because only five cases had been reported in the state in the past five years.

The three cases this year were reported in Rensselaer, Schenectady and Westchester Counties.

The first case of rabies in bats in New York State was discovered in 1956.

The State Conservation Department reported last week that animal rabies in the state had reached the lowest point in 15 years. There were 37 cases in the first six months of this year, compared with 292 in the same period last year.

The department said a decline in the numbers of red foxes in the state, principal carrier of the disease, was responsible for the drop.

Stayman Finds Four-Card Suit

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When your partner opens a no-trump and you have support and a four card major suit it nearly always pays to use the Stayman convention to check for the 4-4 major suit fit.

South has a typical 16 point no-trump and with 12 points and a balanced hand North has enough strength to raise to three.

If he takes that action, he will be a disappointed man. East will open the queen of clubs and there will be no way for South to make more than eight tricks.

If North uses the Stayman convention, everything will be better. South will go to two spades and North will raise to the spade game. Now West can open the queen of clubs or a can of soup but South will wind up with 11 tricks.

Consult a Lawyer When Needed; Follow These Tips

By FAYE HENLE

"Do I need a lawyer?" I've had a host of such inquiries recently, usually from people who are already in trouble.

What strikes me is that many of these situations need never have developed had those involved known where to turn before they got into trouble.

Legal fees can be expensive, but legal advice can often save you money too. Get a lawyer when:

You write a will and when there is an estate that needs settling.

When you buy or sell real estate.

When you form or dissolve a business.

When you enter into a verbal or written contract that involves substantial sums of money.

Often when you are threatened with a nuisance claim, a simple letter from a lawyer will restore peace.

When you become involved in a costly accident.

Annually, according to the National Research Bureau, Inc., we spend some $2 billion on legal services. Lawyers themselves are the first to admit that a large portion of this amount would be saved if people would consult lawyers before, rather than after, they get into difficulty.

If impossible for you to meet the cost of your own lawyer, check whether there is a legal aid society in your area which could be of help to you.

If you wonder where you might find a lawyer, consult your phone directory to see whether there is a bar association in your vicinity. Frequently bar associations offer lawyer referral services. Check your bank or county courthouse.

Because of crowded court calendars and vacation closings, you might be better off trying to arbitrate your case, especially in the case of suits involving auto accidents.

The American Arbitration Assn., with headquarters in New York, has 14 regional offices where you might apply. The AAA maintains a file of 12,500 lawyers, businessmen, accountants and other specialists in 1,600 U.S. cities.

You and your opponent can file statements with the association. Arbitrators will be chosen and closed hearings arranged. Often the disputing parties are represented by their own lawyers. Since arbitration panels usually are speedier than court trials, they cut costs of settling claims. Once a hearing is adjourned an arbitrator has 30 days to reach his decision. His ruling generally is binding, cannot be repealed in court unless misconduct or bias is proven.

If you are debt ridden to the point of bankruptcy or facing garnishments of your pay, you may apply for help via the Wage Earners Plan. This plan is part of the National Bankruptcy Act of 1938. Get a lawyer to file for your protection under the Administrative Office of the U. S. courts. This is done for a $15 fee at your local court. Your lawyer might charge $150 for this service. Yet those costs are far less than the price of bankruptcy, and the court may help you plan your financial solvency for the future.

He'd Like to Stay Like True Self Despite Film Role

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

LONDON (AP)—Take a cockney boy and thrust him into a star-making role in his first movie. What happens?

"I'm not quite able to cope with it," admits Terence Stamp, a husky, handsome 22-year-old chosen to play Billy Budd in the film of that name.

Said Terry: "Things are happening to me and I don't quite understand them. I feel the same, and I want to stay the same, but it doesn't seem possible. Even my friends have a different attitude toward me. They expect me to act like a movie star. It's confusing."

Terry's wide-eyed attitude is what attracted the attention of Peter Ustinov, the many-hatted creator who is writing, directing, producing and starring in "Billy Budd."

The Herman Melville story portrays Budd as epitome of goodness, a British frigate seaman who clashes with the evil master-at-arms, Claggart (Robert Ryan).

Billy had to be innocent yet masculine, Ustinov explained — "Like Anne Frank, the player had to be ripe for it."

Ustinov found Terry in a small revue. Terry had played a few roles in the theater, but nothing steady. His father, a tug pilot, was starting to suggest that a factory job might be a good idea.

"If this is done," Ustinov said, "I never really realized what was happening until we had a big press reception to announce that I was cast for the part," Terry said. "I felt strange walking home. I knew that I could never again walk the streets just as myself."

Terry was further unsettled when his hair was bleached to heighten his innocent look. And he is disturbed about all the publicity he is getting — "I'd prefer to have it after I've done something, not before." But he is bearing up, and Ustinov says he is giving a remarkable performance.

Richmond Aims To Go on Plan Like Newburgh's

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Richmond's city manager says he will try to get the city to go on the "Newburgh plan," which would require able-bodied persons on relief to do some work.

Horace E. Edwards said Thursday he would request the City Council to set up the work program and transfer funds from the general relief appropriation to the proposed new program.

"If this is done," Edwards said, "then, beginning Sept. 1, all able-bodied persons receiving public assistance from the Department of Public Welfare will be required to work for their relief aid."

Government Has Study Going on Closing of Mills

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government is studying what happens to a textile town's economy when the mills close.

The study—to cover 21 communities in 14 states from New England to Georgia—was announced yesterday by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges.

It will be part of the department's effort to solve the ailing textile industry's problems. The survey will not look into causes of shutdowns, said Hodges, but will investigate what happens to employment, population, retail trade, municipal services, taxes, utilities, real estate values and union membership.

The research, said Hodges, should provide information on a problem "we all recognize as one of the more serious areas of economic difficulty in the nation today."

The communities include Amsterdam, Gloversville and Utica.

World's annual diamond production (most of which are mined in South Africa) would fill about 75 bushel baskets.

Traffic Deaths In State Drop Below Last Year

The upward trend of highway fatalities in New York State over last year's toll halted in June when totals were 21 below last year's figure. State totals for the highway point now stand at 888 killed, against 909 in 1960.

Accidents accounted for about 151 deaths during June of this year against 172 for June of 1960.

After a fine beginning in January and February when the score for 1961 showed 66 fewer deaths than during the same two months last year, highway fatalities climbed until the end of May, the mark was 737 for 1961 and 711 for 1960.

Multiple death accidents, that is more than one person killed per accident, have increased so far this year. At the halfway point in 1961, there has been a total of 796 fatal accidents as against 806 for the same period in 1960.

June is one of the several months during the year in which the records have shown a large number of fatal accidents, but the toll for June of 1961—151 deaths—is the least number of deaths in any June since 1948. In that year, 124 were recorded.

"As usual, driver violations were responsible for a large percentage of the accidents," Commissioner William S. Hults of the State Department of Motor Vehicles remarked. "One hundred and thirty of the deaths resulted from such traffic violations as excessive speed, failure to keep to the right, reckless driving, not having the right of way and making improper turns," he said.

The monthly report by the department also shows that in the other 21 deaths, pedestrian violations were to blame.

Intoxicated drivers figured in 13 of the deaths, the report indicated.

Will Support Call For Fallout Shelters

Wayne E. Edwards, Endicott builder and president of the New York State Home Builders Association, announced today that the 3,000-member organization will lend its full support and cooperation to President Kennedy's recent call for home fallout shelters.

Edwards stated that the association has never been consulted directly by any governmental agency in relation to its capacity to meet current or future demands for shelters by home owners; nor has the industry been advised concisely of actual specifications for adequate construction methods.

"We home builders," he said, "have the manpower, architectural talent and general capabilities to meet quantity needs for shelters in New York State. Quality, of course, depends on the availability of official specifications designed to give the fullest measure of protection against blast, fallout and lethal gases."

Federal Judge Retires Was 10 Years on Bench

A federal judge from Monticello in Sullivan County is retiring today after 10 years on the bench in the Southern District of New York State.

He is Edward Jordan Dimock, 71, who reports that he and his wife may fulfill a long-time desire to make another visit to Greece.

He plans to relax for awhile, he told the press.

In 1952 Judge Dimock presided at the nine-month trial of 15 Communists. Thirteen of the 15 were convicted.

Senate Approval Expected for Two Defense Requests

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate is expected to approve today two of President Kennedy's urgent defense requests.

They would:

1. Let Kennedy call up 250,000 reservists and hold fighting men or units on active duty for one year beyond the terms for which they volunteered or were drafted.

2. Empower the President to acquire $568,570,000 priority list of airplanes, missiles, ships and other items.

The Senate Armed Services Committee approved the two bills Thursday. House hearings are scheduled for today, with a vote by the full chamber due Monday on the manpower phase.

Mitchell Charges

thing adverse about welfare recipients.

"The people of Newburgh know what I said, and it was not adverse," he said. "I am only interpreting the move on the part of the attorney general as an apparent effort to gather evidence to remove me from office."

"If removal of a City manager from office is the wish of the attorney general, then let him remove me, and let him do it forthwith."

Lefkowitz called Mitchell's charges "ridiculous."

"I'm merely studying the legal aspects of the case," he said.

Mitchell refused to disclose the source of his information regarding Lefkowitz.

Newburgh's new welfare laws, which went into effect July 15, include cutting off welfare payments to unwed mothers who continue giving birth out of wedlock; restricting welfare payments to three months in a calendar year; and requiring all able-bodied welfare recipients to put in 40 hours a week working for the city.

Meanwhile, Abraham A. Ribicoff, U. S. secretary of health, education and welfare, told a press conference at Providence, R.I., that work projects for relief recipients "are important and should be encouraged."

At Richmond, Va., City Manager Horace E. Edwards said yesterday he would try to get his city to adopt the "Newburgh Plan." He said he had in mind work projects for able-bodied persons on relief.

Britain Tells . . .

mark and Norway may follow suit. But the group's trend toward political integration, halting though it is so far, will be an obstacle for neutral Sweden, Switzerland and Austria, and for Finland, which must pursue a careful policy for fear of the Soviet Union next door.

Kerhonkson

KERHONKSON—In Wednesday's edition it was reported that Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Feldshuh are on vacation. Dr. Feldshuh said today, he and his wife are not planning a summer vacation and will be at home during the summer months.

Hearing Waived For Grand Jury

Howard G. Mertine, 20, one of two, who police said, recently attempted to break into the Am-brose Bros. store, 364 Broadway, waived preliminary hearing today before City Judge Aaron E. Klein, and was held for grand jury action.

Mertine, who told police he has no home, and George M. Rymer, 16, of 18 Foxhall Avenue, were surprised by Detective Harold McGuff and Officer Floyd Krom, in the alleged attempt. The officers said a window was being pried open as they arrived at the rear of the store.

Mertine was charged with third degree burglary and Mertine was booked on a charge dealing with an attempt to commit a crime. Attorney Joseph Quatere appeared for Mertine.

Police claim that Rymer admitted theft of $24.40 in pennies from the store about two months ago. He is due in court again Aug. 10. Bail, fixed at $1,000 each, was not posted.

One driver booked on a traffic charge was fined, and other cases were adjourned. John Riker, of 60 Broadway paid $10 on a charge dealing with failure to keep right.

Motor of Sports Car Catches Fire Near Minnewaska

The motor of a small sports car caught fire early Thursday night as it was ascending the Minnewaska trail about a mile from Route 209.

The car, owned by Gerold Koross, a waiter at the Lake Hotel on Swan Lake near Monticello, was towed to a Kerhonkson garage for repairs to motor and body. The upholstery was also damaged.

Koross told Chief Emanuel Samuels of Kerhonkson Fire Company that he noticed smoke coming out of the motor, in the back of the car.

Koross said flames were extinguished with dry chemicals, with additional use of water on the upholstery. He said the car had "quite a bit of damage."

Koross and volunteer firemen responded with a truck about 9:45 p. m.

Quatere and Kennecott were off about a point. Texaco and American Telephone eased. Johnson Standard was off fractionally despite higher earnings.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.37 at 705.17, almost at its historic closing high of 705.96 reached May 19.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange advanced in moderate trading.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were steady in quiet dealings.

Miss Smith, the report said, was to be X-rayed to determine the extent of possible back injuries.

Blast in Auto

burglarized, has maintained only $20,000 in cash and jewelry was taken.

Immediately after the explosion Thursday police questioned Richard Blaney's wife, Joanna, 24, and a resident of the neighborhood. Police said they shed little light on the slaying.

Ripped Apart

The blast ripped Blaney apart, killing him instantly. He was blown into the back seat. The engine, hood and other parts of the car were found on several rooftops as far as half a block away.

It was mainly on Richard Blaney's testimony, plus accounts of their spending, that Berkery, Staino and Poulson were convicted in a series of trials early this year for the 1959 burglary at Rich's home. They all were out on bail pending motions for new trials.

Congressman Is

and while in Congress has served on various committees. He was associated for many years with his brother, Justice Robert V. Santangelo in a law firm and is still engaged in the practice.

Others to Attend

Also scheduled to be in attendance at the ceremonies on Sunday are Mayor Edwin F. Radel, Judge Raymond J. Mino; Alderman Samuel Perry; Monsignor Edward J. Shea, pastor of St. Mary's Church; and dean of Ulster County; John Luceri; Joseph Quatere; James MacCalline; Dr. Paolo Paduano of the Italian Embassy.

Music will be furnished by the Kingston Concert Band under direction of Salvatore Castiglione, through the courtesy of the American Federation of Musicians, Local 215, Kingston.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was mostly irregular with a moderate upside edge on balance early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .50 at 248.60 with industrials up 1.30 and both rails and utilities unchanged.

The favored stocks were up a point or so but these were few. Most changes were fractional.

Aircraft-missile stocks, which have made wide gains this week, dipped as profits were taken. Oils were unchanged to lower. The pattern was mixed among steels, motors, rails, utilities, chemicals, tobacco and nonferrous metals.

Bethlehem was much in demand and up more than a point. Chrysler also was actively traded and held a gain of around a point on overnight news that a new president had been chosen and that earnings had improved over the first quarter.

Ford, a strong feature recently, encountered brisk profit taking and slipped about a point.

Du Pont buttressed the averages with a gain exceeding 2 points. MGM and General Electric advanced about a point each.

General Motors traded about unchanged. American Motors was steady.

Scherer and Kennecott were off about a point. Texaco and American Telephone eased. Johnson Standard was off fractionally despite higher earnings.

Declares Relief Plan Didn't Work

LODI, N.J. (AP) — The controversial relief plan put into effect by the City of Newburgh, N.Y., recalled an experiment, in some ways similar, tried here in 1959.

Welfare Director Joseph De Peri said that in October 1959 the borough initiated a plan under which able-bodied men on relief were put to work for the borough. The plan failed here after three months, he said. There was not enough money to support it.

"In three months it cost us over $2,000 and we only had three men on the payroll," De Peri said. "According to state law we couldn't have these people work off relief payments. We had to pay them in cash and we weren't reimbursed by the state."

The men were put to work at such jobs as cutting grass on town property, removing debris and cleaning streets. They were paid $1.50 an hour, De Peri said. "It was just too much money for us," he said.

Another Milkless Day in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Prospects of another milkless day soured some Chicago area parents today but it sweetened many of their children.

"I never realized how the power to paralyze a city and disrupt our routine is centered in so few hands," commented Judy McGregor of suburban Hazel Crest.

As she spoke representatives of the Associated Milk Dealers and two striking dairy workers' locals labored to end the wage dispute which has shut off 90 per cent of the city's fresh milk supply.

Some 2 million quarts of milk are sold daily in the Chicago metropolitan area. But not one quart was available today. Stores reported heavy sales of canned and powdered milk. Sales of soft drinks and ades spurted.

Mrs. McGregor, mother of three young boys, said: "My husband and I quit drinking milk and cream. The boys need what little we have left. My husband and I are drinking iced tea."

Mrs. James Saxon, mother of six children including two sets of twins, said: "The kids are just having a little picnic drinking fruit juices, except the young twins who prefer milk. If milk doesn't come in soon, I'll have to drive out of town to get some."

A North Side resident, Mrs. Saxon added the older set of twins, James and Matthew, "are hoping the strike continues so they can drink pop."

The succinct attitude of Mrs. Kelly Crump, a Des Plaines wife with two young daughters: "My kids like orange juice. To hell with the cows."

The strike began Tuesday night. Some 3,200 inside dairy employees walked off their jobs in the 63 area dairies. Dairies shut down but deliveries of previously processed fresh milk continued for 24 hours when 5,200 milk drivers joined the strike.

Issues involved in the strike include wages, automation and fringe benefits. Inside workers now average $110 weekly; the drivers average $127. Old contracts expired May 1.

Ottawa Catholic And Public High Schools Merge

OTTAWA, Ohio (AP)—Merging Ottawa's Catholic and public high schools was "strictly a matter of economy," says Collins Stackhouse, Putnam County school superintendent.

Stackhouse, who sought the merger for three years, said that with both schools bulging at the seams, "We felt the community couldn't go on supporting two high schools."

Parochial and public school officials in this predominantly Roman Catholic community "studied the merger and decided it was the best solution," he added.

Stackhouse said there have been no objections to the arrangement, and he expects none.

Merging public and parochial schools is not new in this rural no-threesteen Ohio county of 25,000 persons. Six schools once operated by the Catholic Church now are a part of the county elementary school structure. The church still owns some of the property and leases it to the county.

Nuns teach in five school districts.

At the Toledo Catholic diocese, a spokesman said church officials generally do not approve of such mergers, but Putnam County "is in a peculiar situation."

All but one of the county's mergers were completed without difficulty. The exception was Kalida, merged in 1948. A group of Protestant parents claimed nuns were teaching Roman Catholic doctrine at the school. The state Board of Education investigated and said it found nothing to substantiate the charges.

At Ottawa, the county will supervise the entire high school operation, and religious instruction for Catholic students will be given outside school hours.

The merger came because the public high school with 100 students, was far below the 240 required for state aid. The state had threatened to revoke the Ottawa High charter. Attendance at the combined high school this fall is expected to total 300.

Shoots Young Cousin In Hunting Accident

CHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Joseph Antico, 25, of Brooklyn, spotted a fuzzy object while hunting woodchucks in a glen near this Orange County community. He leveled his .22 and shot it, police said.

The object was the head of Antico's 12-year-old cousin, John Chirramonte, who had lain down to rest while Antico scouted about Thursday.

The youth was taken to Good Samaritan Hospital in Suffern, where his condition was reported as critical.

No charges were filed against Antico.

Austerity Plan Now Faces Anger Of Wage Earners

LONDON (AP) — The British government's new austerity program cleared the hurdle of parliamentary approval Thursday night as expected but still faced the rising anger of wage earners today.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan won an overwhelming vote of confidence in the House of Commons while groups of school-teachers, miners, engineers and telephone operators made plans to press for pay raises despite government pleas to hold the line.

Macmillan told Commons that the tax increases and other curbs on spending—felt in nearly every household in the land—are vital for the nation's prosperity.

Opposition Laborites shouted for his resignation. But the Conservative majority held together, beat down a censure motion and voted 346-236 to approve the government program.

In London, Bristol, Hertfordshire and Kent nearly 300 teachers at nine schools staged one-day strikes to protest government cancellation of a promised pay boost. The National Association of Schoolmasters, representing 25,000 teachers, threatened to pull out hundreds of faculties when school resumes next fall if the government doesn't yield.

Miners assailed the government's plans and decided to press their claims for more pay and shorter hours.

Phone repairs, radio and television programs were threatened as post office engineers mapped plans for a nationwide three-week ban on overtime work to protest a deadlock on their pay claims.

Prices on the London Stock Exchange fell for a loss of millions of pounds. It was the market's worst tumble since 1957, when the government also jacked up the interest rate.

Negro Approved By Senate Despite South Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) —Despite spirited Southern opposition, the Senate has approved appointment of a Negro integrationist to the Commission on Civil Rights.

The Negro, Spottswood W. Robinson III, won confirmation in the Senate Thursday on a 73-17 roll call vote. Robinson is dean of the Howard University Law School here. He has represented the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in civil rights litigation.

Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., said that appointing Robinson "is like taking a man out of the counsel's box and putting him in the judge's seat."

The Senate also confirmed, by voice vote, two other nominations by President Kennedy—Irwin N. Griswold, dean of the Harvard Law School, as a commission member, and Berl I. Bernhard as staff director.

The commission investigates reports of civil rights violations. It has no police or judicial powers, but makes periodic reports to the President and Congress.

Besides opposing Robinson's nomination, several Southerners demanded that the commission which meets only on call, be abolished.

The commission, created in 1957, will die Nov. 8 unless its life is extended. Legislation to keep it going has been introduced but is tied up in a Senate Judiciary subcommittee headed by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C.

Fall Is Fatal

LIBERTY, N.Y. (AP)—Thomas Swords of the nearby hamlet of Callicoon Center died in a hospital here Thursday of injuries suffered in a fall.

Police said Swords apparently stumbled on a sidewalk and tumbled down an embankment near his home on Wednesday. He was 65.

Boy Drowns While Swimming in Pool

A seven-year-old New York City boy was drowned while swimming in a pool at the Tower View boarding house at Acra, Greene County, Thursday afternoon. John M. O'Toole, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew O'Toole of the Bronx, was unable to swim.

The family had arrived at the boarding house about 3:30 p. m. The boy went to the pool and was missed a half hour later. The body was found in about eight feet of water at 4:15 p. m. Coroner Leland Cunningham gave a verdict of accidental death.

State police reported a search for the boy was commenced when he was discovered missing a half hour after arriving at the boarding house.

President Going To Mrs. Kennedy's Birthday Party

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Kennedy plans to fly to Hyannis Port, Mass., today in time to help his wife celebrate her 32nd birthday.

The First Lady will have a late afternoon private celebration with her family.

Mrs. Kennedy has scheduled afternoon festivities, including a birthday cake, so that her daughter, Caroline, 3½, and young Kennedy cousins can share in the event.

But, according to word from the White House, the candles on the cake won't be lighted until the President arrives.

Mrs. Kennedy's birthday celebration will be at the Kennedy's traditional Cape Cod gathering place.

There has been no word on what the President will give the First Lady as a birthday gift. Last year, he reported it was "just a watch."

Drowns in Hudson

Tribute Is Paid To Charles Munch

The Hon. Silvio O. Conte, member of the House of Representatives of the United States from the First District, Massachusetts, made the following remarks in the House of Representatives, Washington, May 2, 1961:

"Mr. Speaker, it is with true sorrow and wonderful memories that I bring to the attention of the House the coming retirement of one of the greatest artists of the musical world. Dr. Charles Munch has been the conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra—one of the finest orchestras in existence—for 12 years. With the end of the 1962 season, at the age of 70, he will leave Boston. It will be the end of an era, for conductors of the quality of Dr. Munch are individuals who bring their interpretations to music, just as literature produces genius of approach to a theme. The Boston Symphony is known for conductors of this quality; they are essential to its greatness.

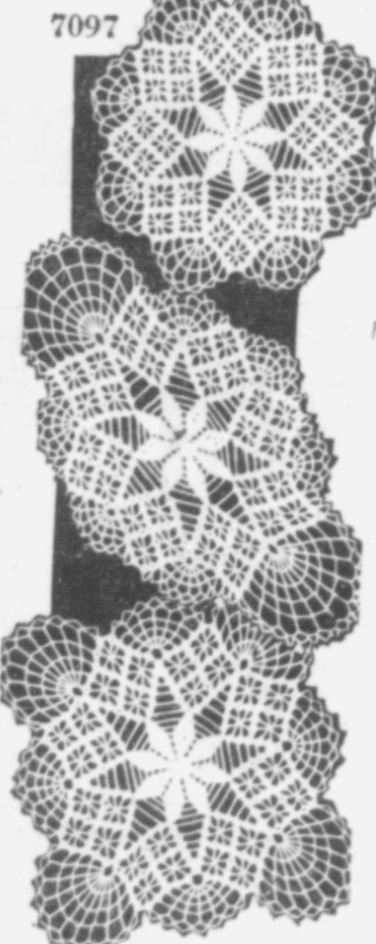

"To rehearse the history of his career at this point would be total understatement, but it is appropriate to mention the honors he has achieved in Boston. Since he joined the Boston Symphony in 1950, it has won five New York Critics Circle Awards for new music introduced, nine Grand Prix du Disques, and the Medal of the Vienna Mozart-Gemeinde. He instituted the orchestra's open rehearsals and took it twice to Europe and once to Russia. It has toured in the Far East and Australia as well."

Job Horizons for Women

Many women's organizations today are endeavoring to help the older woman who wants to work find her place in the business world. According to the New York State Woman's Council (43 women leaders in business and professions, appointed by Governor Rockefeller) the problem is divided into two parts. First, if a woman used to work and there is still demand for her kind of talent, she needs to bring her skills up to date. Second, if she has never worked or if there is no longer a demand for the job she used to do, she must learn a new skill.

Sources of training today are many but can still be expanded. The New York State Employment Service can give such sources in each local area. Adult education courses in high schools, refresher courses offered by colleges and business schools and lessons given by YWCA's in some areas are usually available.

At recent forums sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Syracuse and Corning, women seeking to return to work were advised to consider costs of lunches, travel to and from work, and extra clothing when deciding where to apply for jobs. They were reminded to have birth and wedding certificates with them when applying for jobs and a list of the names and addresses they wish to use as references on applications. "You seem so unbusinesslike when you ask for a telephone book to look up addresses," listeners were told.

Many business leaders noted that a high school education is a must for most clerical jobs today and suggested that women who left school before graduation might do well to take special adult education courses available at most local high schools. Tests are based on comprehension not on memory, the women were told.

Practical Nurses

Practical nurses training was urged as one answer for unskilled women (aged 17-50) who have only eighth grade education. According to the speaker at the Syracuse meeting, a 12-month course would make a graduate eligible for State Board examinations and, eventually, for jobs that could pay as much as $16 a day. Women attending the Corning Workshop heard psychiatrists discuss proper job attitudes.

Soroptimist Club member, Marjorie A. McGowan, who has her own personnel agency in Brooklyn, offers this advice to older women wishing to return to work: "I do believe that many of us belittle our talents. If a course in public speaking to develop confidence will increase woman power, take it! Although she has probably realized for perhaps a year the necessity of returning to business, the average woman does nothing about preparing for it."

"Women in their 40's and 50's have a great deal to offer. They have a great sense of responsibility, use good judgment, are loyal and can be counted on to be on the job every day. They do need a bit of readjustment, however, I make the following suggestions to such women: (1) I urge that women brush up on skills, for it is lack of skill, not age, which is the major handicap. (2) Proper grooming for the business world means a neat, trim appearance, more attention to hair styling and make-up and less use of jangling bracelets and "flouncy" attire. (3) Be businesslike in applying for a job. Fill out the application properly, reading it over before writing, in order to put the proper information in the proper spaces.

Any woman wishing free advice on establishing a business of her own or marketing a product or service, may write to: Woman's Program, New York State Department of Commerce, 230 Park Avenue, New York 17, N. Y., or 112 State Street, Albany.

Housewives' Time Divides Into Days — Not Systems

RUTH MILLETT

Efficiency experts know just how inefficient the average housewife is and how much time and effort she could save herself if she would only systematize her housework.

If it were just a question of so many beds to make a day, so many dishes to wash, so many floors to clean and so forth, any housewife could get through in short order.

It's the unexpected that keeps the housewife jumping, and may make her look to an outsider like inefficiency itself.

It's the baby's sudden fever that knocks the day's plans into a cocked hat. Or junior's last-minute revelation that he has been invited to a birthday party—and mama not only has to run to town for a gift, but get junior dressed in his Sunday best, take him to the party and bring him home.

Or papa's telephoned message that one of the "big boys" is in town and how about having him out for a steak dinner?

Not every day is filled with such little surprises, but most of them are for any woman who has a husband and children to work her days around.

So the housewife, quite naturally, can't be expected to get all steamed up over some scheme for saving 49 steps in making a bed—when the steps she takes chasing a toddler about couldn't be reckoned.

Or when she knows any energy she might save by a more efficient method of clearing the table and washing dishes will be used up one way or another by the unexpected demands of her family.

That's why the efficiency experts might as well give up on the housewife. Hers isn't a job that can be reduced to a system—any system at all.

Thoughts for husbands to consider: See Ruth Millett's booklet, "Happier Wives (hints for husbands)." Just send 25 cents to Ruth Millett Reader Service, c/o Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 19, N. Y. (All rights reserved. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Lillian Elizabeth Cable and Robert Figurelli Exchange Vows

Miss Lillian Elizabeth Cable, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon C. Cable Jr., of West Shokan, wed Robert Figurelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Figurelli of New City, N. Y., on Sunday, July 23 at a 2 p. m. ceremony at St. Augustine's Church, New City.

The church was decorated with white flowers and the pews were marked with satin ribbon.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white silk organza posed over a fitted bodice, shirred abbreviated sleeves and a bateau neckline edged with handclipped Venice lace motifs. The bouffant skirt swept back into an aisle wide chapel length circular train. Her wide French illusion veil was shirred to a bridal crown of pearlized forget-me-nots. The bride carried a prayer book with a white orchid and miniature white rosebuds.

Miss Rose Marie Petrucci of Lexington, Ky., served as maid of honor in a pale aquamarine sheer over matching taffeta styled with a fitted bodice and a softly draped neckline. The bouffant floor length skirt featured a side peplum and she wore a matching large open crowned picture hat. She carried a basket of yellow carnations and yellow rosebuds and stephanotis.

Serving as bridesmaids were the Misses Betty Rinaldo, Kingston; Susan Arcara, Spring Valley; Ann Doll, West Hurley; Dorothy Riggio, West Hurley and Dorothy Figurelli, New City, sister of the bridegroom. Their gowns were styled identically to that worn by the bride, matching large open crowned picture hats. They carried baskets of pink carnations and pink rosebuds with stephanotis.

Approximately 200 guests were entertained at a reception given in Manuelli's Club in Mt. Ivy, N. Y.

For her wedding trip to Cape May, N. J., the bride wore a white sheath with floral print, matching coat and a white orchid.

The bride is a graduate of Onondaga Central School, class of 1961. Her husband, a graduate of RCA Institute, is employed by Bendix Aircraft in Teterboro, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Figurelli will reside in East Paterson, N. J.

AGENT AT SCHOOL

Phyllis W. Barlow, County Home Demonstration Agent, is attending summer school for Extension workers at the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University. Classes began Monday, July 10.

Mrs. Barlow is enrolled in Extension Evaluation and Administrative Management of the County Extension Office.

The Ulster County Home Demonstration Executive Committee granted Mrs. Barlow a three-week leave of absence to attend the summer session. Mrs. William Adams said, "Experience has proven that such leaves away from the job are most valuable. This gives the agent opportunities to concentrate on new methods of doing successful Extension work and to get subject matter that is most helpful to our county."

Mrs. Barlow has served Ulster County for one and a half years.

Prof. A. E. Durfee, director of the Extension Service summer school, said, "One county agricultural agent, four home demonstration agents, and a state leader of county 4-H club agents and home demonstration agents from New York State are enrolled in the three-week summer session."

Surprise Party Is Given for LaPlante By St. Mary's Choir

Members of St. Mary's Choir in Saugerties gave a surprise party for its vice president, Eugene LaPlante on Thursday, July 27 at his home. Mr. LaPlante and his family are moving to California and expect to leave within two weeks.

Among those attending the festive occasion was the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward Plover, pastor of St. Mary's Church, and Mrs. Aleksander Narel, organist-choirmaster.

Don Gardner, president of the choir, presented a gift to Mr. LaPlante on behalf of the group.

Also attending were Harold (Merce) Farrell, Ted Frelich, Art Schoen, Leonard Gilmore, William Maines, Walter Nealy, Harold Wilsey, Mrs. Harold Farrell, Mrs. William Maines, Mrs. Leonard Gilmore, Mrs. Arthur Schoen, Miss Barbara Shultz, Miss Mary Pat Gavigan, Mrs. John Hennigan, Mrs. Patrick Gavigan, Mrs. Ann Seala, Mrs. Jane Simon and Mrs. Harold Wilsey. Children of the choir members also attended.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Wilsey, tape recordings of the group's last two shows were played and Msgr. Plover led group singing. The choir members also made arrangements for a buffet supper.

Neighbor Left by Another Door

Q: The other day when I called on my sister-in-law, a neighbor of hers had been there and when she saw me coming, left by another door. I think she was very rude and that she should have at least stayed long enough to be introduced. I would like your opinion on this.

A: She probably felt she was not dressed suitably to meet a stranger and left quickly by the back door hoping that you had not seen her, and surely had no intention of being rude to you.

Adding His Initial to Hers

Q: I am going to have my lines monogrammed and would like to have them marked with both my fiancé's and my initials instead of my initials alone. For example, the initial of my future name in the center (this to be larger than the other two) and the initial of our first names on either side of it. I

Little New Paltz League Tag Day Slated Saturday

A Tag Day will be held by the Little New Paltz League on Saturday from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. For funds to be used in expanding the league to eight teams.

Three new uniforms will be added to the six teams now playing, and 30 new uniforms will be purchased for the two new teams. The uniforms bought 10 years ago will be discarded.

It is planned also to purchase new T-shirts for the coaches and managers. The total cost will be $650 more than the yearly expense met by the league. The boys are planning to aid their own cause by having this Tag Day to keep their league financially sound.

Mayor Henry DuBois, when asked about this venture, stated "How could anyone complain about the cause for this? You keep all the boys off the streets the entire summer. This program is well worth everyone's support."

This will be the first step ever made by the league to give all boys a chance to participate in most of the games. It is expected each team will have a maximum of 15 boys. Each team will play 14 games instead of the usual 10.

The Little New Paltz League will celebrate its 10th anniversary by participating in the Ulster County Firemen's Association parade Saturday. Permission was given by Leon Keator at the June meeting of New Paltz Fire Department.

The league gave trophies to the New Paltz High School Baseball team for winning the UCLAL championship. Seven of these boys were from the original Little League of 10 years ago. These boys will attend the annual banquet of the now Little New Paltz League when they celebrate the 10th anniversary in the fall.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Don't Resent Daughter, Tell Her Your Feelings

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

What do you think of a 13-year-old who bleaches her hair? That's what mine has done.

She locked herself in the bathroom last Saturday and came out with a bleach job that makes me sick to look at. She's wearing it all frizzed up but if you tell her she's made herself look brazen and cheap, all you get is fresh talk. She is so defiant. Answer: I think that a 13-year-old who bleaches her hair has chosen an inexperienced method to achieve a most worthy end—self-beautification. I suggest that you offer to take her to a good beauty salon, get her hair set and restored to its approximate color. And that if your offer is rejected, you refrain from mentioning her hair again.

Can you stop talking about her hair to her?

If not, let me suggest the possible reason. I think you have not expressed your true feelings about this bleach job completely to your daughter. I'm almost sure that you have not said, "I think your hair looks awful. I loved your looks and am furious at what you've done to them. Now you know how I feel. I'm done talking about it."

This inability to deliver our feelings completely to children is characteristic of many of us. When Carol gets home from a party at 2:30 a. m., when Eddie brings home a friend's old jalopy that isn't worth the $50 he paid for it, our indignation has to seep through so much obstruction that it can't come out full and free.

Or fear of being "intolerant" or "unkind" or some other bad psychological thing makes a dam behind which our indignation goes stagnant, corrupting into resentment that can only trickle through the dam in the form of day-in-day-out reproaches. This trickle not only fails to relieve us but creates a chronic tension and defiance in Carol and Eddie.

Your situation is a fine example of the cruelty we inflict on ourselves by this self-suspicion.

You liked your daughter's hair the color it was. She has changed what you liked and deprived you of your delight in her appearance. Is your indignation at this deprivation a feeling to fear and belittle? Doesn't it represent pride of love, interest and concern?

Of course it does. Then why can't this good and most natural feeling be spoken out fully, once and for all, instead of expanding itself in the trickle of stagnant and poisonous resentment?

Paris May Still Make Skirts Longer

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—You can't count out the rumor that Paris might drop hemlines—not until the last of the current fall style shows next week.

No one, though, seems to be expecting a bombshell of New Look proportions.

That fell 14 years ago, in August 1947, when the world was emerging from a ruinous war and France's reputation as style center of the world seemed crumbling.

With one masterly stroke Christian Dior won back the defunct buyers, saved the Paris couture and banished the square-shouldered, short-skirted, long-jacketed silhouette that had survived from the war.

The New Look, in case you've forgotten, was full-skirted, slim-waisted, midcalf-length and feminine.

It was an overnight sensation, but before the controversy died down, women had marched in protest through the streets, ministers had fulminated pro and con from their pulpits and many a red-blooded male had mourned the eclipse of the lissome limb.

To the average American woman, the New Look's padded hips and cinched-in waists were only so much French frippery to be shrugged off. But skirt length, that common denominator by which women know whether they are in or out of style, had been set at 12 inches from the floor.

That didn't mean a simple operation of letting out hems; it meant reconstruction of entire wardrobes.

Some women didn't give in easily.

Hollywood designers violently opposed the new fashion because it outdated a backlog of pictures.

Best-dressed Duchess of Windsor caused consternation in Paris by supporting British women in their campaign against the long skirt. London designers compromised at 14 inches from the floor; New York designers ranged from 12 to 14.

Then men got into the act. Gov. Roy J. Turner of Oklahoma declared lowered hemlines would bankrupt the country; besides he didn't like their looks.

A Unitarian minister in Washington pronounced longer skirts immoral because "they waste material desperately needed by the world's suffering people." (A Dior skirt used up to 40 yards of fabric.)

But through all the outraged opposition and in the face of circulating petitions, clothing retailers kept calm. They blamed the fashion writers for clouding the issue, ordered more New Look clothes and waited for the tide to turn. It did.

Report Shortage Of Piano Tuners

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Although no one is seeking federal aid, or checking to see how many the Soviet Union is turning out, this nation is confronted with a serious shortage of piano tuners.

The Piano Technicians Guild Inc., which is to tuners what the AMA is to doctors, reports: We have only about 4,000 fully qualified tuners for 12 million pianos—and, heavens to Liberace, about 60 to 70 per cent are untuned.

The guild, ending a four-day convention Thursday night, says that without more tuners we'll all wake up someday with tin ears from tinny pianos.

The profession—which takes years to learn and has top pay of about $10,000 a year—just isn't attracting new blood.

Allan E. Pollard, the guild's executive secretary, can't understand why.

"No one, except a doctor or a minister, is closer to a family than a tuner—if he's the man he's supposed to be," Pollard declared.

Antiques Show Attracts Many Top Exhibitors

The 12th annual Woodstock original antiques show will open on Wednesday, Aug. 2, and continue through August 5.

Louise Bolton and Winifred Hailie are exerting every effort to present this event as outstanding in beauty and quality, which has satisfied so many visitors and collectors during the past decade.

Antique jewelry, rare books and prints, old silver will be some of the interesting exhibits. Refreshments will be served in the horse shed, parking is ample and is supervised. Come and do your Christmas shopping, tax free, and spend a pleasant day among things old and charming.

The following authentic antiques dealers will be represented as well as others: Betty Collins Barnes, Woodstock; Betty's Barn, New Scotland; Verna Elliott, Saugerties; Nellie Elmendorf, Kingston; Henderson's Barn, Circleville; Jean Fleisher, Albany; E. F. Van Horn, Sidney; Donald Johnson, Woodstock; Mollie Rusan, Albany; Mrs. Harry Stevens, Middleburgh; Myra Tinklepaugh, Cobleskill; Elsy G. Stomp, High Falls; The Red Barn Antiques, Woodstock; Lillian Quick, Stone Ridge; M. Berick, Germantown; Helen M. Cox, White Plains; Florence Brandow, Gilboa; Robert Seymour, Chelsea on Hudson; Mrs. Roy Ball, Ellenville; Robert "Trader" Moore, Rio; P. T. Dessez, Key West, Florida; Tom Henderson Jr., Middletown.

Horse Show

The third and final horse show of the Woodstock Riding Club's Dollar Championship Series will be held Sunday at the club's Ohayo Mountain ring in Woodstock. The show will start at 8 a. m. and last all day.

Collector Party, Gala Ball Set By Association

Two important events—a gala ball and Collector's Choice party—have been scheduled by the Woodstock Artists Association. On Saturday, Sept. 2, at 10 p. m., the Association is planning a gala event, "La Dolce Notti Costume Ball."

The entertainment and decor will be provided by prominent artists and the outstanding event of the evening will be the auctioning of murals painted especially for the occasion. In the past these murals were eagerly bought by many art collectors and are now a valuable part of their collections. Italian costumes or masks will be the theme of the evening.

On Sunday, September 3, at 4:30 p. m., a Collector's Choice party will be held. This event is being repeated in response to the interest expressed by the many friends of the Woodstock Artists Association. Thirty-five Woodstock artists and sculptors have generously agreed to contribute work for the benefit of the Woodstock Artists Association and the Woodstock Artists Association Welfare Fund. Ticket buyers will be invited to a champagne party in the garden of the Woodstock Artists Association Gallery, at which time the drawing for the works of art will take place.

Panel Discussion

At WAA Forum Tonight

Four prominent sculptors will engage in a panel discussion tonight at the Woodstock Artists Association. The topic will be: "Psychological and aesthetic problems in our changing social structure."

The panelists will be Dorothy Dehner, Richard Stankiewicz,

SUNDAY SOLOIST—Bernard Krainis, noted recorder soloist, will be heard in a program of music for recorder, bassoon and harpsichord in the regular Sunday Maverick Concert, Sunday at 3 p. m. at Maverick Hall in Woodstock.

Wilfred Zogbaum, Sidney Geist, moderator.

Invitation Exhibition No. 5 has been changed to a Printings and Sculpture show, the Association has announced.

The jury will consist of five young artists: Barry Kahn, Bruce Dorfman, Clare Bush, Natalie Pohrabynski and Wendell Brooks. The opening party will be held in the garden Saturday between 4 and 6 p. m.

Auxiliary Meets

All members of the West Hurley Ladies' Auxiliary will assemble at the Main Street fire house at 3 p. m. Saturday, July 29, before proceeding to New Paltz for the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association annual parade.

Auburn Plan Approved

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Area Redevelopment Agency has approved an economic development plan submitted by Auburn, N.Y. The approval, announced Thursday, qualifies Cayuga County—the Auburn labor market area—for loans and grants under the new Depressed Areas Law.

Killed in Mishap

PAINTED POST, N.Y. (AP)—Robert Luft, about 50, of Morrisville, Pa., was killed Thursday when his automobile struck an Erie-Lackawanna railroad viaduct on Route 15, about six miles southwest of this Steuben County village.

Fall Is Fatal

FULTON, N.Y. (AP)—Arvid G. Goodrich, 85, of nearby Fair Haven, was injured fatally Thursday when he fell into a 5-foot-deep grease pit while stopping at a service station in this Oswego County community.

Fears Committee Post About Docks May Hurt Chances

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Sen. John J. Marchi, Republican candidate for borough president of Staten Island, resigned today as chairman of a legislative committee investigating the operation of municipally owned docks in New York City.

Marchi said in a letter to Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney that, because of his candidacy, "I'm afraid that political opponents will attempt to twist my role in the committee investigation and thus effectively destroy the work of the committee."

Mahoney said in accepting Marchi's resignation with "distinct regret" that "those who wish to hamstring any inquiry into New York City's deteriorating waterfront situation will not hesitate to hang an undeserved political label on the joint legislative committee."

Mahoney said "the Port of New York is a facility vital to the economic life of all the people of the state and no one must be allowed, because of selfish political motivations, to hide possible mismanagement and inefficiency."

Hearing Stated On Wild Tracts, One Here Sept. 16

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—New Yorkers will have an opportunity to express their views at a series of hearings on a bill to establish 16 wilderness tracts in the Adirondack and Catskills.

About 900,000 acres within the State Forest Preserve would be devoted to the enjoyment of nature. All vehicles and motorboats would be barred.

The bill, submitted to the 1961 Legislature for study by the Joint Legislative Committee on Natural Resources, will come up for action at the 1962 session.

Assemblyman R. Watson Pomerooy, R-Dutchess County, committee chairman, said yesterday his group had scheduled public hearings at:

Indian Lake Aug. 26; Saranac Lake Aug. 29; Utica Sept. 12; Kingston Sept. 16; Buffalo Dec. 8; Rochester Dec. 9; New York City Jan. 11, and Albany Jan. 13.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE MAYOR and COMMON COUNCIL

ON THE PROPOSED UPTOWN SHOPPING PLAZA

Honorable Mayor
President of the Common Council
Honorable Body

Gentlemen:

The decision on rezoning a parcel of land below the uptown business district for a proposed shopping center is crucial to the future of our city. You gentlemen are called before the bar of history to decide whether this city shall grow or shrivel and die.

We submit that the proposed zoning change will strangle a 12 million dollar commercial area; that the city will lose income thereby; that individual property taxes must rise and that home-owned businesses will disappear.

We further submit that a decision of such far reaching consequences should not be arrived at by the machinations and assertions of pressure groups and does require the study of open minded, unprejudiced experts.

A similar municipal situation can be observed at White Plains, New York. A new shopping area was built at the same street level, near the older center. Their old business district was also plagued with inadequate parking; it became a slum! We already have one depressed area. Do we want another?

We feel that there is more to this zoning question than meets the eye; that this problem deserves very serious impartial study. No hasty decisions should be made. There is too much at stake.

Sincerely yours,
C. E. Wonderly
President of the Uptown
Businessmen's Association

Braves Play Newburgh Rookies in Sunday Twi-Nighter

CHECKING PRO-LADY entries for Monday's Northeastern PGA sponsored Pro-Lady tournament are four members of the host club (Wiltwyck Country Club), from the left: Mrs. George C. Rifenbary, Ian (Scotty) Robertson, professional; Mrs. Beatrice Cullum and Mrs. Frank Prior, who will play with Robertson. Each professional will have three female partners in the best-ball tournament which gets under way Monday at 9 p. m. (Freeman photo)

Spada and Risley Pitch for Locals

The Kingston Braves play their first home doubleheader of the season Sunday, a twi-nighter against the Newburgh American Legion Rookies. And it would be good strategy and common sense that they win both. First game is scheduled at 6 p. m.

General Manager Fred Davi will call on strong armed Mike Spada and John Risley, both right handers, to top the Hill City nine.

Manager Sal Ciacio is expected to counter with two top notch fingers of his own — Jack Wolpe and Goy Davie.

If Bob Maines is able to get weekend leave from his New London (Conn.) naval training base, he will be fitted into the pitching rotation.

Pike in Lineup

Manager John Pullie also expects the Braves at full strength with the return of Charlie Pike, who is hitting .480 but has missed the past three games.

Doug Holmquist, power hitting catcher Sonny Thomas and veterans Hal Lewis and Wally Widholm are slated to start.

Kingston (11-5) has only one game working margin in the loss column over both Newburgh and West Haverstraw. The importance of a double sweep over the Rookies is obvious.

An outstanding youth project, the Newburgh team was developed from the American Legion Junior ranks by Manager Ciacio, a veteran Newburgh baseball figure. Al Beccaccio, former all-round athletic star at Newburgh Academy, will be a shortstop for the visitors.

Legion Tourney Starts Tonight At the Stadium

Bob Nadler's of Kingston, representing Post 150, American Legion, will meet Rensselaer at 7 p. m. tonight in the opening game of the Third District tournament. Colonie at Albany will play Schoharie at 9 p. m.

Winners of tonight's contests will collide Saturday, 8:30 p. m., in the finals.

The Kingston team captured honors in the Ulster County League but will have its work cut out in the tourney. Both Rensselaer and Colonie have been perpetual winners in the state level and they'll be favored to collide in the finals on Saturday.

Smith Hits 875 Series

Has All the Best of It

Momentum Will Sweep Maris To Home Run Record--Kiner

By HARRY GRAYSON

Sports Editor

Newspaper Enterprise Assn., NEW YORK—(NEA)—Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle have the momentum.

The impetus could sweep both Yankee spacemen to a new major league home run record of 61 in 154 games. Such an authority on the subject as Ralph Kiner predicts that Maris will erase Babe Ruth's magic mark which has stood the bombardment of giants.

"Maris and Mantle both are great power hitters, but, batting ahead of Mantle, Maris has much the better chance," stressed Kiner, who belted 49 home runs for the Pirates in 1949 and now broadcasts.

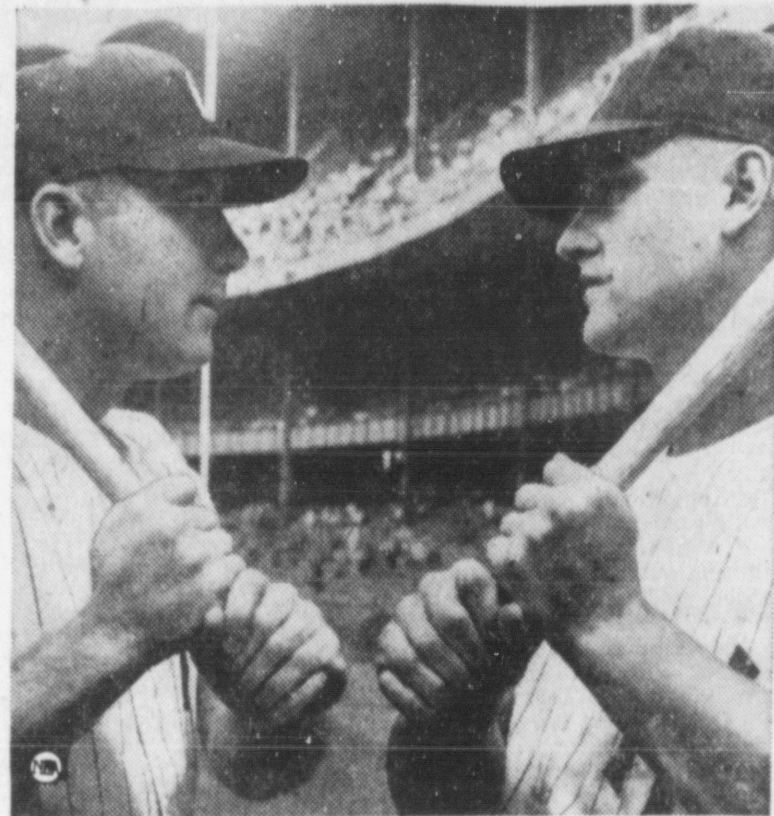

"Anyone with the slightest understanding of baseball can see that Mantle complements Maris like Lou Gehrig backed up Ruth. The result is that Maris gets more pitches to hit than Mantle. The pitcher hasn't much choice when Maris comes to bat. Why put another man on base for Mantle to hit?"

Maris and Mantle are aware of their brookneck home run pace, of course, but squeezing words out of the two strong quiet men you gather that this is strictly a team effort.

"Sure, we'd both like to hit a lot of home runs," grunted Mantle, taping himself in the catacombs of Yankee Stadium for another day's work. "We get paid for hitting them, but the big idea is to win the pennant."

Buccaneer at Bat

Maris and Mantle go together off the field as well as on. They are batching together with another pretty fair home run hitter, Bob Cerv, in Queens where their families are away for the summer. Cerv does the cooking and they travel to and from the park in Maris' car.

Maris, almost shy otherwise, is developing into a home run specialist, a buccaneer at bat.

"I'm ready to hit the first pitch that has a piece of the plate in the strike zone," said the Fargo, N. D., Express. "I may not see another as good."

General Manager Roy Hamey and Manager Ralph Houk are trying to polish up their price-less pair in the personality department. The M boys would like to respond, but bows just don't come naturally.

Maris, handsome enough to be a TV hero, makes an attempt at doffing his cap just before jumping into the dugout after swatting the ball out of sight, but it's almost imperceptible. Mantle finally has reached the stage of brushing his cap, which those who know him best will tell you is a tremendous gesture for the muscle man out of the Oklahoma zinc mines country.

With the plate turned into a vertebrae launching pad, especially by the Yankees, once more there is talk about the danger of the home run becoming too commonplace.

With the Yankees leading the White Sox, 12-0, the other sizzling night, however, and Mickey Mantle in the shower to soothe his gummy legs, comparatively few among more than 46,000 paid guests moved for the exits until Roger Maris had his final swing.

The public still goes for the old sock-er-oo.

Lake Fishing Is Good in State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Some streams are low for trout but lake fishing for most species continues generally good in New York State, the Conservation Department reports. It listed these conditions yesterday:

Adirondacks—Generally favorable. In northern region, lakes are beginning to produce good catches. But, for the first time this summer, trout streams are low. In central region, trout fishing still is good for both brooks and lakes.

Mohawk-Hudson Region and Upper Catskills—Stream levels low, and fishing pressure is down. Some good catches of large mouth bass, and some good trout fishing in lakes during evening hours are reported. Game protectors say "the real pros" are catching trout.

Lower Catskills—Generally good fishing conditions. Stream levels low and clear, except in Dutchess, Putnam and Westchester counties, where they are slightly above normal. Bass fishing is slow but improving in Croton and the reservoirs, with some of the small lakes producing well.

Central and Western New York—Lake Erie is continuing to have its best year for walleyes since 1955 — apparently because of a good hatch of fish in 1959. Most catches are between one and two pounds, with occasional whoppers up to 12 pounds. Bass fishing has dropped off on Lake Erie, but remains fair on Chautauqua Lake, and is picking up along Lake Ontario — especially off Chimney Bluff, nearodus Bay.

Fair for yellow perch and bass in Conesus, Silver and Honeyoye lakes. Musky success still above average in Chautauqua Lake, and occasional good catches also are reported from Allegany River, Otsego Creek and Conewago Creek. Few large muskies also being taken from Waneta Lake and L. make Lake, Schuyler County.

Good lake trout catches from L. make Lake.

Late Rally Decides Dietz Stadium Tilt; Casanova Homers

After spotting the New York Royals four runs in the first inning, the Indianapolis Clowns pecked away and finally scored five times in the fifth and whipped their opponents, 9-4, last night at Dietz Stadium.

Indianapolis starter Paul Gilliam ran into immediate trouble in the opening stanza when he gave up four walks and two hits. Paul Casanova, the hard hitting catcher for the Clowns, slugged a 425-foot home run with one on in the fifth inning. Leo Gray made two sensational defensive plays, one when he raced to deep left center to pull down a drive off the bat of Bill Parker and another when he caught a 420-foot shot hit by Louis Banks.

The game was stopped after the seventh inning because the show put on by the Clowns was a long one, much to the delight of those in attendance.

Trucks Bringing Horses to Spa For Opening Day

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—The uneventful pre-dawn arrival of a guarded convoy of 26 horse vans swelled the number of thoroughbreds today to more than 360 for Monday's opening of Saratoga Race Track.

More horses were on the way. Meanwhile, closing of entries for the opening Flash Stakes feature for 2-year-olds was held off for one day, until Saturday, a track spokesman said.

Delays, track officials said, were occasioned by the strike of stablehands in New York City and subsequent Teamsters Union refusal to move the vans. However, the officials said they expected no difficulty in filling next week's races.

About 1,600 horses normally are quartered here in August, when thoroughbred racing prevails at the historic track.

Horses nominated for the opening feature already here included Gangbuster, Robert the Rose, Eryndom and Tibet.

Striking stablehands had threatened to picket Saratoga. So far none has appeared.

It's quiet like Sunday on the farm," a policeman said.

Police and private detectives guarded all track gates, appraising even passers-by with care.

State Police Escort

The 26 vans, carrying about 140 horses, came from Belmont under a State Police escort.

A driver, who arrived with another convoy via the State Thruway yesterday said:

"A trooper was on my back from the time I left New York until that Saratoga cop picked us up at the city line."

Stablehands at Aqueduct struck last Friday in a dispute with horse owners over the employees' demands to have the Teamsters Union recognized as their bargaining agent.

Teamsters who drive the vans refused to cross picket lines. But some who arrived here said they were Teamsters. They said they would drive only so long as there were no pickets.

In Washington, Rep. Paul A. Fino, R-N.Y., said the stablehands' strike was another argument for passage of his bill for a national lottery.

He said large turnouts at Aqueduct despite the strike proved that "neither rain nor snow nor picket lines can stop the human urge to gamble."

Representatives of stable owners and of Teamster Local 917, representing striking stable employees at Aqueduct and Belmont, met for two hours Thursday night but failed to report progress toward ending the week-old work stoppage.

Rondout, Highland Set For LL Title Contest

Rondout Valley and Highland scored victories in the District 16 Little League tournament last evening and they'll collide tonight at 6 p. m. at the National Little League field for the championship.

Rondout Valley defeated the Kingston Americans, 5-3, at Ellenville while Highland was a 4-0 winner over Ellenville at Forsyth Park in Kingston.

The winner of tonight's game will play for the bi-district title Saturday at Spratt Park in Poughkeepsie in a 3 p. m. contest.

While Highland toyed with Ellenville in its shutout win, Rondout had trouble with the Kingston team. It was a close 2-1 game starting the fifth frame when the winners came up with three runs.

The locals rallied in the last of the fifth for a pair of markers with Charles Green's homer being the big blow. However, the rally fell short.

The line score:

Rondout Valley	.....	200030-5	6
Kingston Americans	.....	010020-3	6
Frank Hermance and Douglas Doyle; Joel Tomson and Ed Schirck.

Williams Back In Fenway Park For All-Star Tilt

BOSTON (AP)—Ted Williams, author of countless illustrious games, returns to Fenway Park Monday where he made All-Star baseball batting history 15 years ago.

The retired Boston slugger will throw out the first ball for the second All-Star contest in which the American League will try to even matters following a 5-4, 10-inning loss to the Nationals earlier this month.

On July 9, 1946 the AL bombarded the senior circuit 12-0 when the major league luminaries last played at Fenway Park. Williams hit two homers, two singles, walked, drove in five runs and scored four.

The "topper," the dynamic batsman starred in one of recorded athletics' greatest moments of muscle vs. inertia.

It was the day Ted did the impossible — knocking Rip Sewell's "blooper" pitch 410 feet into the right field bullpen.

Ted had to supply all the power himself and did so — as only "No. 9" could.

"Thumper" Williams makes his curtain call Monday at the All-Star game dotted with his records. Williams ended his career last season with a .344 lifetime batting average, third among all-time home run sluggers (521) and sixth in RBI (1839).

Sioux Rallies To Top Iroquois

Scoring two runs in the fifth inning, the Sioux nipped the Iroquois, 2-1, in a Metropolitan Knott-hole League game yesterday. Rudy Dirks and Bill Richter of the winners combined for a total of 16 strikeouts while Iroquois hurlers Bill Pleugh and Mike Proser had 12 strikeouts in a losing game.

Dirks slapped a double to pace the Sioux while Proser had a pair of singles for the losers.

The line score:

Iroquois	.....	100 000-1	3
Sioux	.....	000 02X-2	4
Mike Proser, Bill Pleugh and Blaine Kilmer; Rudy Dirks, Bill Richter and Tom Reinhardt.

Yankees Up Margin To a Game

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees hold a one-game lead over the Detroit Tigers as a result of a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox Thursday night while the Tigers were idle.

Ralph Terry, making his first start since July 15 after being sidelined by shoulder trouble, faltered in the ninth and Luis Arroyo finally got the side out after three runs had scored.

Baltimore completed a four-game series sweep over Boston with an 8-5 decision behind Chuck Estrada. The Orioles blasted loose with six runs in the seventh inning, rapping three Boston pitchers for four doubles and a single and collecting three walks, to overcome a 5-2 deficit.

Harmon Killebrew's 31st home run put Minnesota out front to stay en route to a 5-2 victory over Washington. Don Lee made the lead stick with a neat four-hitter.

Bobby Del Greco earned his keep in Kansas City with an eighth-inning home run that beat Cleveland's Nudcat Grant 2-1. Reliever Gerry Staley was the winner.

Maris, Howard Hurt
The Sox's Roger Maris, who leads the majors with 40 homers, and catcher Elston Howard, hitting .362, were injured. Maris aggravated a pulled leg muscle while sliding out a double. Howard was cut on the side of the head when hit by the backlash of Floyd Robinson's bat. Both think they will be able to play tonight against Baltimore.

Although Estrada was wild he went all the way for the Orioles to win his eighth of the season. Billy Muffett, relieving Tracy Stallard in the seventh, was charged with his 11th defeat.

Lee's victory over Washington came at the expense of Joe McClain who had beaten the Twins three times this season. Killebrew's homer came with the score tied 2-2 in the fifth and the Twins added another in the same inning on a walk and successive singles by Jim Lemon and Hal Naragon.

The Nimrod's Corner

By Old Doc

The last edition of a well known weekly magazine devoted to sports, contains an article that should be of interest to all anglers. In addition to the story, there are five pages of colored photographs of game fish taking lures. These photos taken by Elgin Ciampi, are some of the most unusual that have ever reached print.

Ciampi, author of two skin diving books, is presently working for his Ph. D. In taking his pictures at Chicago's Shedd Aquarium, he found the answer to how and why a fish strikes, questions that have perplexed anglers ever since artificial lures have been in use. Ciampi noted that certain lures had more appeal to feeding fish than others. The factors that seemed to be the most controlling, were color, action and the sound it made in the water. In considering color, the experiments showed that a close resemblance to the hue of natural food was far more important than was a similarity of shape. In fact, in many instances a bright, noisy lure with plenty of action, was the more successful because it created a disturbance unusual for the environment. The fish even though well fed, would take this lure regarding it as an intrusion on his domain.

TROUT ARE DUMB:

The experiments with fish taking artificial lures, disclosed that certain species are more wary of these fake morsels than are others. Ciampi ranks the intelligence of the fresh water game fish he studied as follows: 1, large mouth bass; 2, small mouth bass; 3, muskies; 4, northern pike; 5, brook trout; 6, sunfish; 7, crappies. This downgrading of trout makes this face and those of many other anglers, a rich scarlet. Far too many derogatory barbs have passed from the lips of trout fishermen who have always disdainfully regarded the pursuers of other fish as only one step above an individual afflicted with leprosy. There is going to be a lot of tall explaining between sips of suds and harder stuff, whenever bass fishermen happen to meet the trout angler. For one, we're heading for the woods till this blows over.

The time of day when fish are more apt to bite, escapes the inquisitive mind of Ciampi. He found that from dawn to mid-morning and from mid-afternoon to dusk on cloudy days, the angler is apt to experience the best results.

Ciampi offers some other suggestions to those who derive their sport with a rod and reel. First he contends there is no such thing as a "fished out" body of water. Next, never rely on the built in action of lures. The more the angler supplies his own by jerking, rotating and bobbing it, the better one's success. Always use lures that are different from what "everybody" is fishing with. Avoid direct, bright sunshine and periods after dark, as fish are apt to be dormant. Use bright, active, noisy lures. Change lures after a few casts if you don't have results. While he doesn't mention it, this corner would like to add its own hint for better results—go where the fish are.

Beesmer Seeks Repeat In Onteora '25' Sunday

D. D. (Rebel) Harris may be the chalk favorite Sunday at Onteora Speedway Park, but a large number of the area's racing buffs will be rooting for Ernie Beesmer.

The home town driver slammed to his first feature win two weeks ago and will be trying to make it two straight Sunday. Harris, a six-time winner in the 1961 season at the Olive Bridge track, will also get strong competition from such worthies as Don Avery, Stretch Van Steenburg, Walt Schubert and Jim Markle. This sextet has dominated the recent events at Onteora. Track conditions are reported perfect for the weekly card which includes three 10-lap heats, a consolation and 25-lap feature. First race is scheduled at 2:30 p. m.

Kathy Broskie Topples 610 Series in Foursome

Kathy Broskie, who has been crowding toward the mark all this summer bowling season, crashed the 600 circle with a 610 blast last night in the Sangi Mixed Foursome league. Her games were 214, 201 and 195. In a previous series she had maintained her 500 string with 523. Sis Balash powered 207-526. Evelyn Nitsch 529, Tracy Jordan 213, Harold Rockwell 203, Fred Bayona, 269-619.

Team results:

Eleven Main 0, Buckman's Brass 84; Charlie's Texaco 0, Wilber Fuel 3; Park Diner 1, Ricci's Rest 2; Buckman's Brass 84, 0, Charlie's Texaco 3; Study-Eight Barber Shop 2, Team 15.

Shadydales Tops On State Tracks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was Shadydale night at New York State harness tracks.

Shadydale Monitor won his ninth straight with one division of the $3,000 Voorheesville Pace at Saratoga Raceway Thursday night in 2:02 4-5.

Shadydale King won the other division in 2:05 3-5.

Shadydale Missile won the featured $3,000 Bullet Hanover Pace in 2:06 3-5 at Monticello Raceway. He rewarded backers with $26.70.

Recapping the features at other New York harness tracks last night:

Vernon Downs—Dud Mc ($17.70) 2:00 3-5, in the Class A Pace.

Batavia Downs—Matastar ($3.40) 2:06 1-5, Harry Pownall Sr. driving, in the $14,677.50 Batavia Downs Stake.

Roosevelt Raceway—Doc Hobbs ($4.10), 2:01 4-5, Robert Cherrix driving, in the $3,500 Class A-1 Pace.

Art Wall Leads Field With 67; Bob Mix at 74

Alex Gerlak, The Twaalfskill Club professional, posted an 81 in the first round of the 43rd National PGA championship Thursday at Olympia Fields in Chicago.

The veteran professional, appearing in his sixth PGA, had nines of 41-42 and found himself in a difficult position to survive the first cutoff after today's round.

The other Northeastern PGA representative, Bob Mix of Albany Country Club, fared much better with a 36-38-74 round and has an excellent chance of surviving the cutoff.

In the PGA they cut the field twice. At the end of the second round today only 90 will remain and after the third only the low 60 may play in the final round on Sunday.

Another former area star, Milon Marusic of Webster Grove, Missouri, had a 75, Marusic formerly played out of Wolferts Roost in Albany.

Lanky Art Wall, so used to trouble and playing so well he can't be bothered by conditions, takes a one-stroke lead and a bundle of regained confidence into the second round today.

The way this veteran of aches and pains manhandled the par 35-35 — 70, 6,722-yard Olympia Field Country Club course with his brilliant 3-under-par 33-34-67 on Thursday, the Palmers, Players and the rest may be looking up to him the rest of the way.

While many of the huge field of 166 grumbled over the "flying grass" of the north course fairways they claim nullifies any consistent control of approach shots. Wall calmly set about keeping himself trim for the rest of the weekend rumble that is scheduled to end Sunday.

The 6-foot-1, 175-pound pro from Pocono Manor, Pa., has played only in bits and dashes while he recovered from—in order, a twisted right knee, a kidney ailment, a torn rib cartilage, and a damaged groin muscle.

Herbert In Running

Wall, who laughed agreement when someone suggested his 67 was probably his best played round since his sizzling last day 66 won the 1959 Masters, finished late in the day and wrestled the first-round lead from defending champion Jay Hebert of Lafayette, La., and chunky Ernie Vossler of Oklahoma City. They had 68's.

Little Jerry Barber and former champion Doug Ford were at 69 with Bill Heinlein, 70, club pro from Carmel, Ind., playing in his 18th PGA. Among the others still far from out of it were such as Doug Sanders and Bob Rosburg in a group at 70, national open champion Gene Littler in a group of 10 at 71. Player, three-time clamation Sam Snead, Ken Venturi, Mike Souchak and Tommy Bolt in a huge contingent at 72, and a grim, disappointed Arnie Palmer in another bunch at 73.

June Dillman Seeks Fourth Straight With Red Dominion

MONTICELLO, July 27 — Woman driver, June Dillman, seeks her fourth straight victory with 12-year-old campaigner Red Dominion Saturday night in the feature $5,000 Invitational Handicap Pace.

Red Dominion, lifetime winner of $103,010, paced a 2:02.1 mile—second fastest of the season—capturing an Invitational event last Saturday.

Miss Dillman's chestnut gelding also boasts victories in 2:04.4 and 2:05.

Red Dominion has earned $5,335 this year while posting a 3-1-0 chart in six races.

In Saturday's test, Red Dominion has been assigned the No. 7 post.

Vineddy, second to Red Dominion last week, will open from the extreme outside in the eight-hole field. Buck Minnear will be at the controls of Westchester Hills Stable, Chester, New York.

Others in the field are Scott Honor, Mili Hanover, Lord Dares, Lusty Abby, Meadow Vision, Fancy Gold and Miss Filibuster.

Street Lights Go On Again in Girardville

GIRARDVILLE, Pa. (AP)—The moon didn't shine bright in this tiny northeastern Pennsylvania community Thursday night but the street lights did once again. The Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. turned on the 135 lights after having shut them off Wednesday night, claiming the borough had failed to pay a bill which had grown to $9,676. The firm took the action after the Girardville Council Thursday voted to borrow $2,000 to pay part of the bill.

Charged With Murder

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—Leslie Milligan, 26, was charged today with murdering his wife, Mary, 23, by throwing her out of a window of their fourth-floor slum apartment. The woman plunged to her death on the pavement.

Marcia Worried Over Solar Winds

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Guess who's worried about solar winds? A blonde named Marcia, that's who.

Ranger I—an unmanned space explorer—is poised to blast off from Cape Canaveral.

One of the instrument assemblies aboard is called an electrostatic analyzer. One of its jobs is to probe solar winds.

That's where Marcia Neugebauer comes in.

"I'm a co-experimenter with the electrostatic analyzer," says Marcia, 28. She looks like a well-scrubbed, freckle-faced college freshman. But she's a senior scientist who is among the key personnel responsible for Ranger's complex machinery.

Marcia works at the California University of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory here. She is in charge of coordinating the various experiments being performed by instruments on Ranger.

"I'm the only one that worries about the scientific aspects all together," she said.

She said it's up to her division—the division of the space sciences at JPL—to determine where the scientific instruments are placed in the spacecraft and how often a reading is taken from each.

Marcia received a bachelor of arts degree in physics from Cornell University in 1964 and master of science degree, also in physics, from the University of Illinois two years later.

She is married to Dr. Gerry Neugebauer, 28, JPL project scientist for Mariner B, a proposed 1964 unmanned expedition to Mars. The couple, who met at Cornell and have been married for five years, live in Altadena.

Cerebral Palsy Center Budget Now Is $30,000

The phenomenal growth of the local Cerebral Palsy Center, from a $500 to a $30,000 annual budget, was described to the Kiwanis Club Thursday by Lawrence Jensen, a member of the Board of Directors of the center. The speaker paid tribute to the various service clubs and organizations which help support the center and its work, and stated that this support would continue to be necessary in the future. The work of retired fire Captain Edward "Yank" Albrecht, was also highly praised by Jensen. Implementing his remarks concerning the ever-increasing work of the Cerebral Palsy Center, the speaker showed a film taken at the center which clearly showed the progressive strides being made to aid the victims of cerebral palsy and other diseases.
